RAF BOMBERS FIRE GERMAN PORT ON BALTIC

Rostock, Important Nazi Base Suffers Heavy Aircraft Pounding.

By The Associated Press

British air raiders, systematically blasting Germany's war nerve centers, set great fires at the German Baltic port of Rostock last night and apparently inflicted heavy damage, the London air ministry announced today, while Nazi warplanes stepped up the tempo of their attacks on England.

Described as the home of the Heinkel aircraft works, Rostock is a shipbuilding center and a major base for German war supplies going to the Russian-Finnish fronts.

A British spokesman said the attack was "heavy and quite successful," with widespread flames sweeping the busy port as the last RAF bombers turned back.

"Four of our aircraft are missing," the air ministry said.

At home, Britons reacted enthusiastically to Lord Beaverbrook's speech in New York last night urging creation of a second front in western Europe.

"This is a chance to bring the war to an end here and now," the British lease-lend coordinator told American newspaper publishers.

"Strike out to help Russia. Strike out violently. Strike even recklessly . . ."

London comment ranged from the man-in-the-street's jubilant "you tell 'em, Beaver!" to more restrained remarks in informed military circles, and many observers interpreted the speech as symptomatic of a governmental change of heart toward the idea of a European front this year.

Several Britones Killed

More than a dozen Britons were killed in German raids, with the Nazis dive-bombing an English southeast coast town at breakfast and belting a working-class district with high explosives.

On the Russian front, a Stockholm dispatch quoted a Berlin spokesman as asserting that the German 16th army, trapped for many weeks in the bloody Staraya Russa sector 180 miles south, had burst through Soviet lines and reestablished contact with the main German forces.

Soviet dispatches reported that Finnish troops, moved south of Leningrad for the first time, were fighting alongside reinforced Nazi divisions in the general Staraya Russa area but declared their counter attacks were unsuccessful.

A Red army bulletin said Russian troops of the Leningrad front killed more than 1,400 German officers and men in two days and destroyed 12 Nazi blockhouses.

In another sector, the communique said, soviet forces beat off a series of counter-attacks

HYDRAULIC PLANTS AT MT. GILEAD IDLE

Company Says Walkout Due To Closed Shop Issue.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, O., April 24—Both plants of the Hydraulic Press Mfg. Co. here, this county seat community's largest factory, were idle today. The plants employ about 500 workers.

Howard F. MacMillin, president and general manager of the company, issued a statement at noon today in which he declared there was no disagreement "between the company and the employes" and that the company's only disagreement with the union was over a closed shop provision in the proposed new contract.

He added that the company opposed the closed shop provision because it would involve discharging a large number of employes, some of whom had been with the company 20 or more years.

Mr. MacMillin declared that a union committee had been negotiating with the company, had promised there would be no strike or walkout, and that the committee had agreed to call in a conciliator if an agreement could not be reached locally. He charged violation of this agreement, asserting the committee, without any warning to the company, had ordered its members to cease work and that the walkout was decided on not by the union members as a whole but by the committee.

Walter McElroy, president of the local AFL union at the plant, could not be reached for statements, but idle workers said the stoppage resulted over the company's refusal to answer proposed new terms that had been submitted by the union. Last night at 10:30 was the deadline set by the union for an answer, and none was forthcoming, the workers said.

Work stopped at 6 a. m. today when the night shift went off work. The day shift did not go to work.

Hundreds of Workers Setting Stage for "Big Push" in Construction of Scioto Ordnance Plant.

By BOB BYRD

The Scioto Ordnance Plant site is rapidly being prepared as the stage for a drama of men, machinery and materials that will convert a fertile agricultural area into a war munitions center within the span of a few months.

The several hundred workers, scores of trucks and dozens of pieces of huge machinery now kept busy daily represent a large-scale effort in themselves, but they are only the stage crew in comparison with the number of workers expected here soon. The work now under way is only preliminary. However, it will clear the way for a huge-scale construction effort in the near future.

Likening the war plant to a drama can't be carried much farther than that without encountering conflicts. One is the fact the star performers are already on the grounds and have been for several weeks. They are the men who have been building the plant on paper, tearing it down and building it up again better than before. They have shifted, rearranged and revised their plans dozens of times, all for the purpose of licking their problems in the drafting room and around conference tables instead of waiting for them to develop in the course of construction. That's why architects and engineers are hired—to overcome those problems on paper, which is a far less costly procedure than moving buildings and roadways after they've been built.

A View of the Site

In view of the gigantic task of working out the final plans for a project that sprawls over hundreds of acres, it's surprising to drive through the site area and see what has already been done in the way of actual work.

On roads that are still open to the public one may see new roads being built—and quickly. Drive through one day and you'll see a bulldozer, which is nothing more than a big caterpillar tractor with a scraper in front of it, plowing a broad furrow across a pasture field. Come back a couple days later and you'll find a road stretching across that field and trucks hauling material over it. The picture changes almost overnight.

Late in the afternoon after the workers have gone home you can see scores of trucks lined up in a field south of the Likens road. This scene stands out in sharp contrast with a nearby barnyard where a farmer, in the midst of preparations to move from his property, is giving the remaining livestock their evening feed.

Draftsmen at Work

One house along the Likens road looks just as it always did, but inside are half a dozen draftsman-designers sketching work details that several weeks hence will become the working plans for hundreds of workers.

The several hundred workers, scores of trucks and dozens of pieces of huge machinery now kept busy daily represent a large-scale effort in themselves, but they are only the stage crew in comparison with the number of workers expected here soon. The work now under way is only preliminary. However, it will clear the way for a huge-scale construction effort in the near future.

On down the road at the former Likens Chapel, a dozen more draftsmen are busy. That number will increase when more tables are placed in the basement. The

RUSSIA HOLDS U. S. FLIERS WHO BOMBED JAPAN

Crew and Plane Interned After Forced Landing on Soviet Soil.

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Writer

KUIBYSHEV, April 24—Russia announced today that a United States bomber which raided Japan last Saturday and then lost its way has been interned with its crew in the Russian Maritime province on the sea of Japan.

It appeared to be an already completed test of the year-old Japanese-Russian neutrality pact but United States embassy officials here said Ambassador Admiral William H. Standley had asked Washington for instructions.

The only official account yet made public was circulated by Tass, official Soviet news agency, under the caption: "Forced Landing of American Plane in Maritime Province." The full dispatch follows:

"KHABAROVSK, April 22 — On April 18th on the territory of the Maritime province there landed an American warplane. As stated by the plane crew the latter participated in the same day in a raid by the American air force on the Japanese islands and, losing orientation, committed a forced landing on Soviet territory.

"According to common international regulations, Soviet authorities interned the American plane and crew."

Delicate Problem

The internment of the fliers offered a delicate problem for the Russians—how to treat a soldier with whom you are allied on one front (the German front) when he enters your territory on another frontier in war against a nation (Japan) with which you are at peace?

There have been many cases in which British and German fliers came down in neutral Eire. The Irish held that their position was clearly dictated by international law—the fliers were interned for the duration. The indications in the present incident were that Russia likewise was following international law to the letter.

(On April 13, only five days before the raid on Japan, the first anniversary of the Russian-Japanese neutrality pact, the organ of the Russian Communist party, the newspaper Pravda, warned Japanese militarists to hew to the line of neutrality.

(Tokyo's morning papers reviewed relations with the Soviet Union today, expressing belief they would remain harmonious. The timing suggested that the incident of the United States plane

45-64 Draft Registration To Get Under Way Saturday

Scheduled Three Days; Marion Boards Hope To Have Majority in by Sunday Night.

Plans for Marion city and county participation in the nation-wide draft registration for men 45 to 64, inclusive, this week-end were being completed today as board clerks announced the hours and places designated for registering approximately 4,000.

Registration in Ohio will be conducted over a three-day period starting Saturday noon; it is expected about 700,000 men will be registered throughout the state for classification according to their skills and aptitudes for war production work.

Time Schedule Set

On Saturday and Sunday, registration will be conducted from noon until 6 p. m. and on Monday from 7 a. m. till 9 p. m.

Board clerks in Marion stated today they would like to have as many registrations as possible out of the way by 6 p. m. Sunday.

Local Board 1, which serves Wards 1, 2 and 3 in the north and southwest sections of the city, will conduct registration at the board office and in other offices located in the McNeal-Wolford building on West Center street.

Local Board 2, serving Wards 4, 5 and 6 in the south and southeast sections of the city, will register men at its office and in other offices in the Marion Reserve Power Co. building on South Main street.

Board 3, serving the county's rural districts, will conduct registration in the following places throughout the county: at the board office in the Palace theater building; in Caledonia at the mayor's office and in the council rooms; in LaRue at the town hall; in Morral at the town hall; in Prospect at the mayor's office and in Waldo at the township house.

13,000,000 In Nation

National selective service headquarters in Washington, anticipates a total registration of about 13,000,000 men in continental United States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, and Puerto Rico.

The registration will include every male citizen and every male alien resident, other than persons exempted by the selective training and service act, who had attained the 45th anniversary of his birth on or before Feb. 16, 1942, and has not attained the 65th anniversary of his birth on or before April 27, 1942.

War Bond Pledge Campaign Studied for Marion County

Preliminary plans to ring every doorbell in Marion city and county in the interests of the "Pledge for Victory" drive of the War Savings Staff for Ohio, beginning May 1, are being studied by Marion county Chairman Elmer J. Schoenlaub and members of his committee.

The first concern of the committee is to set up an organization to conduct the house-to-house canvass, and it also is making plans to acquaint the public with all details of the campaign before it is begun. This is planned as a means of speeding up the actual job of filling out the questionnaire cards that will be carried by the workers.

One of the developments that will speed along preparations for the Marion county phase of the campaign will be the arrival of supplies, expected within a few days. The committee will distribute these to the workers in time for the start of work on May 1.

Harold H. Bradlow, executive secretary of the War Savings Staff of Ohio, has outlined the importance of the Pledge for Victory drive in a letter to Chairman Schoenlaub. He said, in part: "The results of this campaign to obtain voluntary pledges of bond buying will:

"1. Serve to guide the government in determining the tax program.

"2. Step up actual bond buying by all classes of income earners.

"3. Check inflation in a market of constantly diminishing commodities.

"4. Provide the cushion essential to the financing of peacetime buying.

"5. Tell the world whether Americans will act voluntarily in support of the war effort — just how much we appreciate democracy."

He also emphasized that the drive will show the federal government the extent of war bond buying that can be expected on a voluntary basis.

Details of handling the house-to-house drive are being left entirely in the hands of the county chairman.

PROGRESS ON FIRST CALLED SATISFACTORY

Roosevelt Tells Newsmen Another Program May Be Piled on Top of Original.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 24 — President Roosevelt declared today that the war production program was working out extremely well and hinted that another might be piled on top of the one which was called fantastic last January.

In his annual message to congress on Jan. 6, the President set forth a schedule calling for a production in 1942 and 1943 of 185,600 planes, 120,000 tanks, 35,000 anti-aircraft guns and 18,000,000 tons of commercial shipping.

The intimation that these tremendous goals might be expanded to hasten a United Nations victory came when he was asked at a press conference whether he though steel plants now being built or expanded would raise capacity sufficiently to meet all requirements.

No, he replied, he couldn't say that because there might be another program by the time the expansions and new plants are completed.

The chief executive expressed a personal view that there still was too great civilian use of steel, but that war production board officials had taken a contrary position. He said that this is being checked on now.

Talks on Shipbuilding

To an inquiry as to whether anything was being done to "revitalize shipbuilding," Mr. Roosevelt said that everybody was working on that at the present time. Referring to the difficulty of obtaining enough steel, he added that you can't make bread without flour.

He was informed that the ship construction program was regarded generally as the only portion of his January production plan which was lagging seriously behind.

And he was reminded that Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, defense shipping administrator, had testified on Capital Hill that there was "too damned much loafing" in shipyards on the part of both labor and management.

The President commented that was a good burr under the tail of both management and labor. But, responding to further questioning, he advanced the view that probably a shortage of steel plates was more responsible than slow downs for the lag in the shipbuilding phase of the war effort.

Double Loafing Cause

He said he doubted that whole a great percentage of the slow down was due to loafing, although the percentage might be high in an individual yard. But there is a shortage of steel plates all over the country, he asserted. Mr. Roosevelt remarked that it must be remembered that both the maritime commission's program of building cargo vessels and the navy's program for constructing warships had been increased, resulting in a shortage of both steel shapes and plates.

To a question on whether priorities were delaying the shipbuilding efforts—he was informed of complaints that others were getting the steel which shipyards wanted—the Chief Executive remarked that of course anybody who does not get what he wants shouts about priorities.

Something is being done, Mr. Roosevelt asserted, to increase the capacity of the steel industry, but he was unable to supply a definite figure on that. It takes about a year to build a new plant, he said.

Plenty At That Time

"Have you heard anything recently," he was asked, "from the people who said a year ago there was plenty of steel capacity?"

Well, he observed, there was plenty at that time. Nobody then, he said, visualized the [redacted] production program.

The President, under questioning, said he had not had any reports that because of bottlenecks some aviation plants had had to lay off men.

He voiced the opinion that there was no great problem involved in getting iron and steel. There is plenty now in this country, he asserted.

For example, Mr. Roosevelt

U. S. RAID STILL PUZZLES JAPS

Tokyo Spokesman Fishes for Information on Bases Used in Bomber Raid.

By The Associated Press

Japan, still puzzled about the "mystery base" from which U. S. bombers raided Tokyo six days ago, asserted today that Washington had not yet issued a communique on the assault because "it has no way of communicating with the American warplanes which attacked Japan."

A Japanese spokesman, Tomokazu Hori, said this meant that none of the raiders had returned to their bases.

While Tokyo thus sought to draw information from Washington, Russia announced that one of the American bombers had made a forced landing on the Soviet Maritime province, facing the sea of Japan, and had been interned with its crew in compliance with international law.

Russia's action appeared to be an already completed test of the year-old neutrality pact between

PIPELINE WORKER KILLED IN CAVE-IN

Kenton Man Trapped Near Gas Leak Is Asphyxiated.

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., April 24—George Hamilton, 32, Kenton pipeline worker for the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., was accidentally asphyxiated Thursday afternoon when dirt caved into a pit in which he was working, burying his head adjacent to a leak in the gas line. The tragedy occurred near Marseilles.

Milo Dowd, a fellow worker whom Hamilton had relieved in the pit three minutes earlier, said the man was tunneling along the line in search of the leak, and had his head back in the tunnel when the dirt dropped on him. He could not be removed for a half hour.

When efforts at artificial respiration failed, the Boyd & Ford ambulance at LaRue was called and rushed Hamilton to the Kenton fire department were an inhalator squad worked fruitlessly for nearly an hour before Dr. C. L. Johnson advised Fire Chief Ralph Jones and his aides that further efforts were needless. Dr. J. A. Mooney, Hardin county coroner, returned a verdict of accidental death due to asphyxiation.

He was born near Kenton April 27, 1909. He had been in the employ of the Ohio Fuel and Gas Co. as a line repair and maintenance man for 12 years.

Surviving are one son, Dennis, a brother, Jack Hamilton and Mrs. John Whitehead, all living at the home of the latter near Kenton, and a sister, Mrs. Edna McMillen of near Mt. Victory.

Funeral services will be conducted Sunday at the Brindley funeral home by Rev. H. E. Pfister of St. John's Evangelical church. Burial will be made in Grove cemetery.

Don't Worry About Lack of Sugar Your Body Doesn't Need It Anyway

System Makes Its Own Sugar: Expert Tells How To Find Substitutes from Fruits and Other Sources.

By RENNIE TAYLOR

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24—(Wide World) — If that half-pound of sugar a week won't satisfy your personal cravings, you can get plenty of additional sweets from unrationed foods by using a little ingenuity and muscle.

Take some dried fruit, a refrigerator and a shallow pan and some cheesecloth and you can make all the fruit syrup you want. This syrup can be used in place of sugar in cooking many dishes.

The U. S. department of agriculture and the various state nutrition committees urge patriotic defense council [illegible] tell you how.

But before you fly [illegible] this—and before going [illegible] suggestions [illegible] travel say [illegible] tooth.

Half a pound of [illegible] is just half a pound more than you really need for a balanced diet, they say.

In 1823, when [illegible] just becoming a "luxury" in the family of Gabriel [illegible] sons were beginning to [illegible] great men, the per capita consumption of sugar was less than three ounces a week.

Fat Sweets, Lose Teeth

The Baltimores never visited sweets until the white men came along, yet they were stout fellows and up until then never had much dental trouble.

The human system just doesn't need sweets, the dieticians say, because it makes its own sugar. It is a prodigious user of one particular kind of sugar it makes, and it can produce it from the starches or fats in any diet. It even reprocesses the sugar taken in the form of candy, soft drinks and the like.

So whether you eat meats or starchy foods, your digestive machinery if normal, will continue to make its own brand of sugar as needed.

Housewives can make syrups rather easily out of dried fruit or certain fresh fruit juices by either evaporation, freezing or boiling or by a combination of these methods, reports Dr. W. V. Cruess, head of the University of California fruit products laboratory and member of the state nutrition committee.

Prunes, which contain 40 to 55 per cent sugar, and raisins, which run as high as 60 or 65 per cent, yield the most sweetness for the money, but dried dates and figs also can be used. Dried pears, apples, peaches and apricots contain lots of sugar but are difficult to handle.

If you want something extremely sweet, boiled-down mulberry juice will do. Most berries are poor sources of sweetening.

All the fruit syrups can be used in cooking, says Dr. Cruess, but do not serve very well as a table sweet.

Sugarless Candy

To make a sugarless candy bar with a minimum of effort grind up assorted raw dried fruits and nut meats and stick them together with a little honey. Raisins, prunes and figs make a palatable mixture, Dr. Cruess reports.

To sweeten certain things without sugar.

Coffee — Add honey, maple syrup, corn syrup or sorghum syrup. Don't use fruit syrups, particularly prune and raisin, which will curdle the cream.

Dry Cereals and Oatmeal— Make it 90 per cent cereal and 10 per cent raw raisins. Muscats are best.

Rice and Rice Pudding— Chopped or whole raisins or figs.

Cooked Cereals — Dried fruit cooked with them will furnish the sweetening.

Pies — Prune, fig and raisin pies need little or no sugar.

Cakes, Cookies, Custards, Frostings — Use honey in about the same proportion as sugar, but remember that honey contains moisture and sugar does not. Reduce the liquid ingredients of the recipes accordingly. Honey averages about one-sixth moisture.

Four ounces of prunes contain as much sugar as a 2-ounce candy bar, says the fruit expert. One ounce of raisins or six ounces of sweet cider or one raw apple is about as sugary as a soft drink.

Dried fruit yield a maximum of sweetness when cooked long and slowly. Prunes simmered for hours and then kept just below simmering temperature for a long time are really sweet.

The starch in one big potato or a good-sized slice of bread or two ounces of spaghetti when digested will supply the body with as much sugar as a dish of ice cream.

Secret Orders

CHAPTER 14

Waylaid

CONDITIONS at Titan seemed perfectly normal. Stephanie spent the remainder of the night and part of the next day in the plant office doing typing for her father, reading, sometimes napping on the old leather-covered couch.

It was dusk before her father returned from his detailed inspection of the entire plant.

"Everything seems under control, chicken," he said stamping the dust from his shoes. "Maguire's thought of everything. Guess we can beat it back to town."

Refreshed from her nap, Stephanie slipped under the wheel while her father settled himself under a robe on the back seat.

"Great to have a good chauffeur," he said, sighing wearily. "I don't know when I've been so tired."

He was asleep before they left the extensive plant grounds and turned into the highway. Stephanie breathed deeply of the moist night air, turned her collar up against its sharp coolness. Winter twilight fell quickly before the onslaught of darkness and a tulle fog crept up from the marshes.

Driving wasn't going to be a cinch tonight, Stephanie realized as she slowed to a moderate pace. Fog made distances so deceiving. They'd be lucky if they made town before midnight.

Clouds of the thick fog swept across the highway intermittently now, obscuring everything. Stephanie pulled the car down to a crawl.

"What's the matter?" Guy roused himself in the back seat. "Fog. Visibility is practically zero."

"Take it slow. You'll be all right."

Then they saw the car ahead. Parked diagonally across the highway's right lane. The yellow eye of a flashlight winked at them.

"Look! Someone's in trouble," Stephanie said, her foot touching the brake.

"Step on it!" Guy snapped from over her shoulder.

"But—that man is signalling us—shouting something—"

"Step on it! Quick!"

Stephanie responded instantly. The car leapt forward, veering down on the parked automobile. She turned the wheel. Tires crunched and there was a moment's sickening lurch as she pulled around to the left and two wheels skidded in the soft shoulder. Hands clenched on the wheel, foot firm on the accelerator, Stephanie brought the car back into the highway as the fog lifted momentarily, long enough to show her a straight stretch ahead of five hundred yards.

"What in the world do you suppose—"

Shots in the Dark

She had her answer before she'd finished the question. The sharp report of a gun.

Stephanie glanced at the rear-view mirror. "Dad! They're shooting at us!"

"Damned right. Those birds mean business. Thank God they're bum shots."

Three more shots in rapid succession. Stephanie urged the car to swift flight.

"There," she gasped as a curve took them out of sight of the bandit car. "Was that a hold-up, Dad?"

"Doubt it"— still peering through the back window. "Probably something to do with the plan to sabotage the plant. The average hold-up artist wouldn't bother to come this far."

"Could it be the same car that followed us in last night?"

"Possibly." Guy laughed dryly. "Somebody wants my scalp all right. Wish I'd had time to get the number of that car. We'll stop up here at Greenbriar and report it."

The stop at Greenbriar delayed them so that it was after midnight before Stephanie drove into the gravelled driveway at 873 Sonoma.

"Looks as if we had company," Stephanie said as Guy pulled open the doors of the erstwhile stable and her lights picked up the luminous bulk of Aunt Allison's town car.

Guy chuckled. "Bet Al got the jitters over that blackout we had. Something like that would scare her stiff."

"Certainly we were frightened, Guy," Allison admitted a few moments later as, trailing an extravagantly luxurious negligee, she met them at the head of the staircase. "And for Victoria's sake as well as my own we decided the only sane thing for us to do was to come here with you until this ghastly business is over."

Guy grinned, patted her shoulder. "Glad you did. And I hope you brought your other shirt because I've an idea this 'ghastly business' is going to last a spell."

"Oh, it can't possibly. It's unthinkable!"

It was unthinkable. Stephanie agreed silently as she undressed in the dark to avoid waking

"Hello, stranger darling," Vicky murmured sleepily, stirring like a lazy kitten. "Where've you been?"

"Just up to Titan with Dad,"— and decided against telling Vicky the rest of the story. No use adding to her fears.

"Hope you don't mind our barging in like this,'—around a pretty little yawn.

"Certainly not. Will be fun having you here."

Bad News

"Oh, Stevie, have you heard about Kurt's squadron?" Vicky raised on one elbow.

Stephanie felt her heart stop to listen. "No—what?"

"Ten of the boys were killed. They got word at the Field yesterday. Isn't that ghastly?"

For an eternity, she didn't dare ask. Then, "And—Kurt?"

"Kurt's badly wounded. Listed among the casualties, they said. Of course that doesn't tell you much. He might even be dead, too. They make terrible blunders about reporting these things you know. I just can't hardly believe it. Can you?"

Stephanie could only shake her head.

"Of course hundreds of the flyers were in those barracks. I suppose lots of them were boys we've met from the Field. It just doesn't seem possible. And most of them were so terribly good-looking, too."

Stop! Stop it! Stephanie's heart screamed silently. He can't be dead. Not Kurt! That virile blue flame of his, courage. That tall-standing strength of his young body!

"Goodness, you're cold-blooded," Vicky interrupted, cuddling down into her bed again. "You might at least say you're sorry even if you didn't go much for Kurt."

"I—am — terribly — sorry," she murmured in a voice that sounded amazingly like her own.

"Well, so am I. Goodnight, now."

"Goodnight," — automatically, and snapping off the light, Stephanie slipped into bed. But even in the darkness she could see his face clearly. Blue eyes smiling, strong jaw, generous mouth, head thrown back as if he were constantly searching horizons. Where was he now?

For awhile, she lay frozen in the grip of her imagination, her slim body shivering convulsively. Then finally young vitality revolted and tears came—a hot tide that spent itself in the depths of her pillow and helped her stand the shock.

And when, hours later, a full moon appeared from behind clouds, she slipped quietly out of bed, crept to the window. Then cheek resting against the sill, she tried to believe that Kurt was still alive, that somehow, someday she would see him again.

Stories of Ohio Indian Days Told To Kiwanians By Mt. Gilead Pastor

... Eugene Rush of Mt. ... on "Stories of Early ... n Days" at the weekly ... meeting of the Kiwanis ... Hotel Harding Thursday. ... of the site of the Del- ... ns south of Delaware ... location of the Boy ... Saying that he knew ... well because he had ... spare 22 years, he de- ... Indian camping ... forming a perfect cir- ... and when trees were ... said tribes from all ... tribe gathered there ... fires.

... an incident which, ... curred some time ago ... situated on land where ... camp was formerly lo- ... a farmer who lived ... heard a knock on ... When he went to the ... opened it, he saw five ... standing before him.

In Quest of Coins

... the Indians claimed to ... descendants of the former Del- ... Nation. They had returned to claim a box of gold and silver coins, which had been buried in the vicinity. They said their ancestors obtained the gold during the War of 1812, shortly after Perry's victory on Lake Erie.

According to them, the Indians were "on the war path" then and after killing all settlers in the vicinity, they gathered all the plundered coin and silver together and had an old Negro transport the money in a square stone box to their camping grounds south of the present site of Delaware. They said they later killed the Negro.

Finds Empty Box

The farmer told the Indians to leave his property at once however, later, when he was plowing his fields, his plow slipped several times over the same section of land. When he investigated he discovered a square stone box buried in the land. But the box was empty.

He said he later found a series of inscriptions on trees, undoubtedly put there by the Indians who buried the coins so that they could find them again.

Wise "Old Leatherneck"

Rev. Rush also spoke of "Old Leatherneck," an Indian leader whose monument is erected near Dublin. He said Old Leatherneck, though a brave Indian leader, realized that the Indians' struggle against the oncoming Whites was a hopeless one and so worked with the White man.

However, Old Leatherneck's people decided he must die for his treachery. When the old Indian learned of the verdict, he began a dance around the camp fire where they were. As he danced he took off his life.

His executors forming in a line behind him and joined in the dance. They followed him until he completed his dance. Then despite an offer by Sam Dublin, after whom the town of Dublin is named, of $350 to spare the life of the old Indian leader, Old Leatherneck was killed. But Sam Dublin later recovered the body and had it buried in the vicinity of where the monument now is, Rev. Rush stated.

Guests at the meeting were H. W. McColley of Chicago, A. C. Johnston of Kenton, Harley D. Hartman of Cleveland and C. F. Pfister and son Bill of Troy.

WANTS TO FIGHT

Now in prison under a 15-year sentence received at a 1940 courtmartial at Fort William McKinley in the Philippines, Captain Rufo C. Romero, formerly of the Philippine Scouts, is shown, right, entering court in Seattle, Wash., where he seeks his freedom to get back and fight with his countrymen against the Japs. Romero was courtmartialed for turning out secret maps to persons not entitled to receive them.

Plans Made for Registration of Older Age Group.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, April 24—Selective service occupational questionnaires were mailed this week by the Morrow county draft board to 870 men who registered in February. This is the first group to receive the occupational questionnaire here.

In Mt. Gilead and Cardington the registration will be made on Saturday, Sunday and Monday. At Sparta, Chesterville, Edison, Marengo, Iberia and Johnsville registration places will be open on Monday only, from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Members of the American Legion and the American Legion auxiliary will again conduct the registration throughout the county as they did in February.

Peace, When There Is No Peace

AGAIN, there are rumors of peace. Germany and Japan, it is said, will wage "political" war on the United States with a "peace offensive."

The people are warned in advance by their leaders not to be fooled; that would be playing the Axis game. But the people are awake.

They know now there can be no peace till the issue that has been raised has been settled. The war cannot be called off till it is finished.

The war cannot be finished till one side or the other has clearly earned the right to impose its will on the loser. There can be no peace till it has been decided for at least another generation that any nation which uses war as an instrument of national policy is acting against the recognized code of ethics.

It is forgotten now, or remembered bitterly, that after the conclusion of the other war there was an international agreement called the Kellogg-Briand pact that outlawed war. All the nations subscribed to it. It was the international law.

The law has been broken, but the ethical basis on which it stood has not changed. Men still believe that war as an instrument of national policy is not right. They have gained that much in their fight for the kind of world they want.

When this war is over and these same men have reestablished the right to call warring nations criminals under a recognized code of international law, then there will be another test of their ability to enforce what they believe. They failed after 1918 in enforcement; there was nothing wrong with their purpose.

There can be no peace on the terms of the nations whose leaders coldly plotted how to conquer the world by treacherous resort to war.

The Offensive

OFFENSIVES in war, like social changes in peace, have a way of coming about so gradually that they are almost imperceptible. Thus, while United Nations spokesmen talk about taking the offensive in the near future, Japan still is swallowing nervously about a bombing raid.

The remarkable Russians are talking about the ground being hard enough for them to begin their spring drive. Another "commando" raid has ploughed some fresh furrow in the heeling brows of the Nazi occupants of the French coast. The British continue to carry out day-and-night bombing raids against the enemy, on a scale approached only by the autumn raids made against them by the Germans in 1940.

It is possible to get the impression without trying overly hard that the offensive already has been taken.

Expediency Cuts Both Ways

ADOPTION of a policy of expediency in handling the foreign patent problem leaves something to be desired. Expediency cuts both ways.

The patents the government proposes to seize are seizable because they were obtained from abroad by arrangements with private enterprise. The arrangements worked well, on the whole. They made available to this country ideas for doing things that could not have obtained any other way.

Contrary to the vaporings of critics who are beating the business dog with such verbal sticks as cartels and patent pools, exchange of patent information worked well before the war. Whether or not it will be used again when the war is over probably will depend largely on whether or not today's expediency is carried far enough to interfere with the needs of tomorrow.

All Facts Now Available

REGISTRATION of men from 45 to 64 during the week-end completes the fact collecting job undertaken in the terms of the selective service act. The nation's potential manpower for the war effort has been canvassed. From now on, registrations will be for the purpose of noting changes.

It is not known precisely what use is to be made of the latest bloc of registrants. But, in view of the exigencies of total war, the registration needs no justification. It was fortunate for the United States that its first registration was held long enough before war began so that the paper work all had been completed when the war emergency reached a climax on Dec. 7.

Manpower mobilization, incidentally, is one of the things the United States was not supposed to be able to do; the Axis powers counted on that. It is a pleasure to surprise them on one more count.

News Behind the News

New Control for Inflation Seen in Price Fixing Plus Loose Tie on Wages.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 24. — When Mr. Roosevelt tried to push the word "inflation" out of the dictionary as a descriptive term for our current economic predicament, he really had a new conception of a remedy, if not of the problem.

Advance notices of his intentions around in the government suggest he has conceived a new economic freezing apparatus.

He would freeze prices first, all prices. Then instead of trying to freeze union wages to that index he would tie them to a cost of living index, but not directly, only loosely, through the war labor board.

In other words, he would merely order the war labor board not to grant any more increases in cases brought before it, unless the cost of living index rises.

The administration figures this would prevent any union wage increase cases from even getting to the board, as long as the cost of living remains the same as the base period, between Feb. 25 and March 25.

Other salaries would not be fixed but the argument for increasing them generally would be frozen by the action on the cost of living.

The cost of living index, of course is based on the prices of rent, light, bread, food, clothing and some other items, and not upon the general price level which may or may not fluctuate the same.

Farm Prices, Too.

Farm prices would likewise be handled on this tie-freeze basis, without direct action, by the initial step of freezing the price a baker can charge for his bread or a butcher for pork chops, etc.

It is figured that the limitation on bread will be an automatic restraint on the price of wheat and the freezing of pork chops will hold corn-hog prices, etc., on through the farm commodity list.

The political advantages of all this primary part of the plan, from the administration standpoint, lie in the fact that it is not proposed actually to freeze wages or farm prices themselves, but to get at them indirectly.

There are other political aspects. In the discussion stage is an idea of confiscating all big wages above a certain amount, say $25,000 or $50,000. It would not bring in much revenue, but it would be popular with the labor and farm groups.

Another feature of the plan would confiscate all profits above 6 per cent beyond all existing and proposed business taxes, but this has once been turned down in congress.

The whole plan is subject, of course, to congressional approval.

Another thing: It seems now that when price boss Leon Henderson and Vice President Wallace surrendered to Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, there was an understanding that the voluntary method of raising money for the war would be continued beyond a few months only if it works, that is, only for a trial period.

Henderson and Wallace apparently were content to wait. Morgenthau intends to fool them by making it work.

Taft vs. Willkie.

Willkie ran away with the publicity honors of the compromise adopted by the Republican national committee at Chicago, but the opposition claimed a majority of the committee.

The senate cloakroom is comforting itself with the information that Mr. Willkie had only 15 committeemen at an advance meeting in New York. He had more than that here one-sixth of the 96 committeemen at Chicago, but the Washington boys think Taft would have won on a showdown by about 35 to 35.

Where Willkie stole the show was not in the voting, but in the advance planning. He pulled no surprise on the senators. Before the meeting word came down here of what he intended.

But it was just not good patriotic politics or sense from either his standpoint or theirs to start a row, as Willkie well knew. Thus he had his opponents in a position where they were willing to give more than he did in a resolution pledging only post-war leadership of the world for the purpose of liberty and opposition to warfare.

In this conflict, both Willkie and Taft were running like lead horses for 1944, and this was the most important aspect of the matter.

The resolution was written for the purpose of the coming congressional elections in which each individual candidate will run on his own platform anyway. The 1944 presidential nominating convention will determine the policy of that race.

And where was Mr. Dewey in the conflict—nowhere in sight. He has not shown up yet, but certainly will when he runs for governor of New York state next fall.

What's the Big Argument?

Joint Income Tiff Packed with Dynamite

NEWSPAPER readers for years have tried to follow the debate over the joint income tax proposal, usually without much success. Here are the talking points.

The U. S. treasury is against the practice of letting husbands and wives make reports on their incomes as though they were no different from any other two taxpayers. The treasury says it could make $300,000,000 more if all husbands and wives had to report their combined incomes and pay taxes accordingly. But there are other things to consider.

There are nine so-called community property states. They argue that one-half of a family's total income should be considered as belonging to the wife. Thus, a man earning $25,000 can report $12,500 for himself, $12,500 for his wife. The aggregate revenue from two returns of $12,500 each is 25 percent less than the income tax on one return of $25,000. The treasury says that isn't fair. The community property states say it is.

The treasury also says it isn't fair for men whose wives work or have investments to report their actual earnings separately. Thus, a man in any of the 48 states with a net income of $10,000, and whose wife has an income of $2,500, with no dependents, would owe $3,425 on a joint return, but the two of them would owe a total of only $2,970 on separate returns. The other side to that is that a woman can object to being penalized for marriage; the tax due on a joint return would be greater than that due on a separate return. "If I choose to work, I should be treated like a single woman," a married woman argues. President Roosevelt himself, has admitted that he thinks women should be allowed to file separate returns on money they actually earned themselves.

The treasury may make a concession on that point, but insists that income from securities owned by wives shouldn't be taxed separately. Many a wealthy man it explains, puts a large part of his securities in his wife's name so she can report the income thereby reducing the total tax. But, retort the women who own securities in their own right, why should we be penalized for that?

That is why the argument over joint income tax filing goes on and on and on. It is red hot and full of dynamite.

Immunization

Disease is one of the "four horsemen" that ride in wartime. Dr Edwin F. Daily, director of the division of health services of the children's bureau, U. S. department of labor, explains it like this:

"Only a healthy nation can fight a successful war. Hitler undoubtedly knows that, and I feel sure he is not too comfortable over the typhus that is threatening his troops on the eastern front. At present he may ignore the diphtheria epidemic reported to be killing from 700 to 800 small children a day in occupied Greece, because it represents no immediate menace to his fighting force. Most adults have developed an immunity to diphtheria.

"In our own country, so far as fighting disease is concerned, there is no dearth of ammunition. We have been immunizing for a long time here. Every American soldier who sets foot on foreign soil will be protected against dangerous diseases known or suspected to be prevalent there and for which accepted means of prevention are known—such as smallpox, typhoid, tetanus, yellow fever, typhus and cholera. . . . On the home soil, there is no more patriotic duty we can perform than to give our children this same kind of protection against the diseases to which children are susceptible. Of course we are doing so now. A large proportion of American children are vaccinated against smallpox. A very large number also are protected against diphtheria. But not all are so protected. We ought to extend immunization to all children, as to all soldiers in the army. . . . It is those who are not immunized who make epidemics possible."

Finally Got Him

SAN FRANCISCO—John Pomeroy, 96, fought through the Civil and Indian wars without a scratch, but he's in a hospital at last. An enthusiastic "sidewalk superintendent" at the building of a big garage, he tripped over a girder and broke his leg.

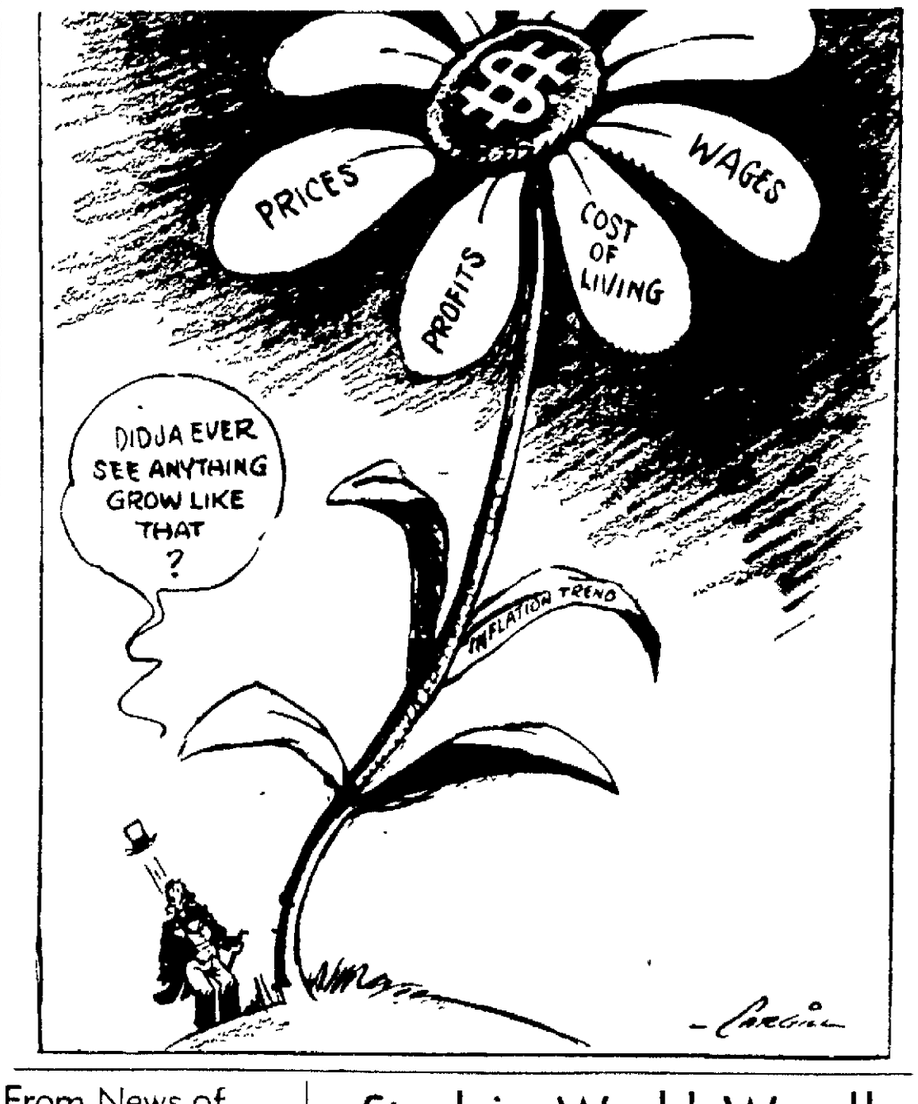
"UPSIE DAISY"



From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Sunday, April 24, 1932. A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Freeman of Wood street.

William E. Lee of Carner avenue returned from Owensville, Ind., where he had been called by the death of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Beales Lee. His mother died seven hours after the death of his father.

Honoring Mrs. Fred Haskell and her sister Mrs. Earl Stiffler, whose birthday anniversaries came on this date, a dinner was given at the Haskell home on North Prospect street.

Relatives and friends were guests at a dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Radel, southeast of Marion, in celebration of Herman Radel's birthday anniversary.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Monday, April 21, 1922.

Announcement was made that the "expansion movement" proposed for the Marion Chamber of Commerce might include enrolling a large number of women as members of the organization. In this connection a civic dinner was announced for the following Thursday to which women were to be invited so as to give them an opportunity to become better acquainted with Chamber of Commerce activities.

Thomas E. Hunter, 73, died at his home on Leader street.

The feature picture at the Grand theater was "Along Came Jack." It was a comedy filmed in Marion with prominent local folk in the various roles. Steel in World War II

America's Peacetime Research Helpful Now.

IN A special "Production For Victory" edition, U. S. Steel News gives a stirring account of United States Steel Corporation's war production. "Those of us who are identified with U. S. Steel and its subsidiaries have reason to be proud of the great productive power at our command," B. F. Fairless, president, writes in a foreword. "Our seasoned and efficient organization of more than 320,000 employes is an industrial army of incalculable value to our country—an army, moreover, which has long since enlisted for the duration."

The edition's message is summarized colorfully in an advertisement on the magazine's back cover containing an illustration of two Flying Fortresses in the air. With them is this statement:

"You'd laugh today at the planes they flew in the last war. Flimsy, cloth-covered fighting planes that flew only 130 miles an hour. Heavy, inefficient engines.

"'Make them of steel!' Everybody knows steel can't fly.' (But that was 25 years ago).

"Now steels are made as different as trees in the forest. Some hard, some soft. Some tough. Some plastic. All useful.

"Men of science have been at work, you see. Men tinkering with molecules, taking steel apart—really. And putting it together new ways.

"Now your airplane engine weighs less per horsepower, develops incredible speed. Fuselage framework can be engineered like a bridge. Today's steel can be made in sections much less thick, and just as strong.

"Steel has enlisted for the duration. What we've learned is coming in handy for our government now. We men of steel (640,000 of us in the industry) are right now turning out more steel in America than Germany, Italy, Japan and all the Axis-dominated countries put together.

"The world will discover that not only America at peace—but America at war—has a backbone of steel."

Condensed Food

By LUCRECE HUDGINS
Wide World Features Writer

WASHINGTON—Squeeze the water out of an egg and you'll have about a quarter of a shellful left.

Pack 333,333,333 eggs in ships' holds and you will use up about 2 1-3 million cubic feet. Powder the eggs and they'll take only about half a million cubic feet.

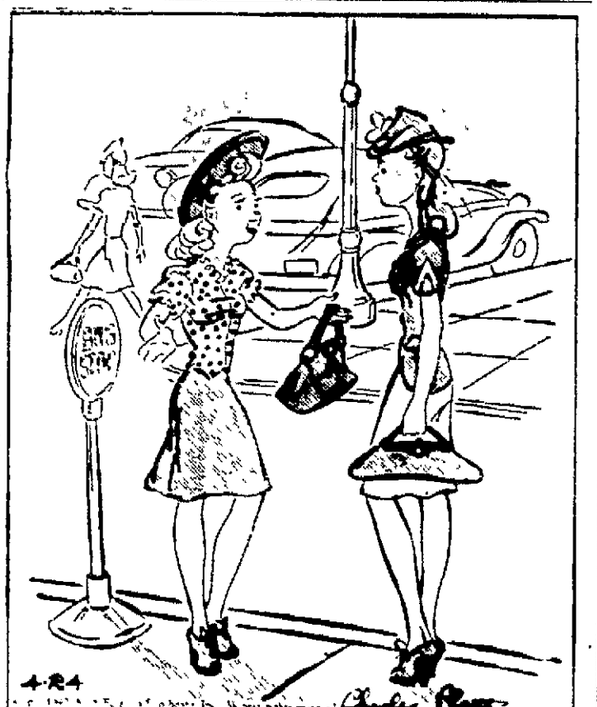
That's why eggs that go to England are dried before they leave American shores. War puts a premium on space and drying saves space.

The same thing is true of milk. By the end of October, 1941, 21½ million pounds of dried milk had been or were ready to be shipped to England. Multiply 21½ million by 11 and you'll get an idea how many pounds that milk would make if it hadn't had its water removed.

Almost 300 million pounds of dried fruits and vegetables were ready at the end of last October to be shipped to England. If they hadn't been dried they would have weighed 900 million pounds!

If dried foods save that much space in a ship's hold, think how much they save in a soldier's hip pocket. More than 3,300 calories (or three square meals in emergency rations) would weigh about 6 pounds in natural foods. Dry they weigh 2 pounds. Figure that out in terms of extra space for bullets for Japs!

The great secret of help is encouragement. —Octavia Hill



"So after I told him how big and strong he is, did he propose? NO! He enlisted!"

Round II

One Thing Leads To Another We Want To Write Some More About Boxers from Australia

By DAMON RUNYON

LOS ANGELES—I suppose you could call this Chapter II of Rambling On Australian Prizefighters, which began with my piece yesterday on Les Darcy, the boy from "down under" who was hounded to death in 1917 by criticism of him in this country as a military slacker.

I knew one sports writer who took an active part in that witch hunt and was so ashamed of himself after Darcy's death that he enlisted in the army though he had reasonable grounds for exemption. However, Darcy was criticized in his home country, too, so perhaps the American sports writers were not to blame for their beating, except that they overlooked many better targets while firing at Les.

The greatest prizefighter who ever came out of Australia was uncountedly Bob Fitzsimmons, middleweight, lightweight and heavyweight champion of the world in his time. "Ruby Robert" was born in Cornwall, England, but made his first appearance as a fighter in a "bum show" at Timaru, New Zealand, in 1880.

He was a fighter for 34 years, his last exploit being the flattening of one "Kid Sweeney" at Williamsport, Pa., in 1914. He was then 52 years old and had long been out of action. He died in 1917 of pneumonia. Today many old timers think Fitzsimmons, knock-kneed, freckled, bald-headed guy with a tremendous punch, was the one man who might have had a chance to beat the mighty Joe Louis.

FITZ' greatest handicap was bad hands. He was always bunging them up on the skulls of his opponents. I have heard it asserted by competent authorities that he weighed under 160 pounds when he knocked out the mighty Jim Corbett and it seems to be generally agreed that in his heyday Fitz never weighed much beyond that mark. I never saw him at his best, but he must have been a wonder.

Peter Jackson, a British West Indian, who was also developed in Australia, was another great heavyweight of the '80's and '90's. I have heard graybeards assert that he was probably the greatest that ever lived, but I am inclined to hold by the record, and the record does not sustain the assertion. Jackson, called "The Black Prince," was a beautiful boxer and gained his greatest fame because John L. Sullivan apparently wanted no part of his game, yet his achievements could not be compared with those of Fitzsimmons.

Frank Slavin, "The Sydney Cornstalk," was a heavyweight contemporaneous with Jackson and was knocked out by the latter in London in one of the most spectacular matches of the pugilistic period. Slade, "The Maori," Jim Hall, Dan Creedon and "Australian Billy" Murphy were other old-time Australian gladiators of various weights and more or less ability. Then there was Alfred Griffiths, called Young Griffo, a featherweight, who was something of a magician with his gloved hands.

IT used to be said of Griffo that he could stand on a handkerchief and move his hands, head and body with such facility that no one could hit him but I always suspected that it depended on who was trying to do the hitting. Furthermore, I have seen other boxers who could do the same thing for a limited period, for instance Jack Johnson—if the hitter was not too cute. However, there is no doubt Griffo was inordinately clever.

The Australian fighter who made the poorest impression of any that ever came to this country was Bill Squires, a heavyweight. "Uncle Bill" Naughton, then the dean of American sports writers, was largely instrumental in importing Squires to San Francisco to fight Tommy Burns for the heavyweight title. "Uncle Bill," usually one of the most astute judges of fighters, thought Squires looked fine in training and was greatly depressed when Burns beat the Australian out in one heat.

Tom Heeney, "The Rock of Down Under," was about the last Australian heavyweight to make a reputation here. He came via London and won a lot of tough fights. He made a valiant but futile bid against Gene Tunney for the title, a battle chiefly notable for cost. Madison Square Garden a promotion loss upwards of $300,000. Heeney lives in Miami Beach and was doing all right the last I heard of him.

Sunflowers, Turnips Play Detective

By The Associated Press

NEW BRUNSWICK—The lowly turnip, Tobacco Road and the towering sunflower of Kansas are being pressed into service by the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station to ferret out an insidious plant food deficiency which threatens to balk the efforts of farmers to get maximum yields.

Scientists have found that these two plants are especially sensitive to lack of boron in the soil. When the soil cannot furnish about one part of boron in four million, or the equivalent of five pounds of borax per acre, plants fail to develop normally. Use of indicator plants, like turnips and sunflowers, has been found a simpler means of detecting boron deficiencies than laborious chemical analyses.

RAF Chooses Youth in Axis Air War

By The Associated Press

LONDON — The RAF, Britain's young fighting force, turns its back on "Colonel Blimps" to choose officers among younger men.

The youngest wing commander is 23 years old and has 22 Axis planes to his credit.

The leading night fighter pilot, also a wing commander, is 24. A wing commander over 30 is a rarity.

The army rank equivalent to an RAF wing commander is lieutenant-colonel.

The average age of station commanders of six RAF fighter stations is 35. One 35-year-old station commander, whose rank is equivalent to colonel in the army, leads his men into combat. He has a bag of eight Axis planes.

NEWS FROM THE FARM

Sir: Just to let you know what is doing here on the farm. The moles and gophers are pretty active. Politicians have been listened to the home folks pop off and answering the questions. There was a new whiteface calf Friday. The enemy countries must be amazed at the number of things that the United States reports a shortage of. It cost $1.06 to resole a pair of $2.25 shoes, but they are better than they were in their beginning. Rainbo Club met here Thursday, two preachers' wives attended, pretzels were among things served for lunch. The common garden variety sort of folks are being continually exhorted to awaken to the condition of situations and country, while it is quite likely it wouldn't do any good for them to wake up, it is more likely they have awakened and are just stunned. Potatoes were planted Friday, some strawberry plants set out, ditto frost-proof cabbage plants, some other seeds were dropped. It is an interesting time of the year. The preacher was surprised Friday night with a birthday party.—Hester Potter, Kansas City Star.

ORDER 5 NEW RESTRICTIONS

Truck Deliveries and Telephone Installations Affected by U. S. Action.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 24—Five new restrictions on civilian life ... ordered by the government in the gradual move toward rationing for the whole nation.

The latest orders curtail local and long distance truck deliveries, restrict the installation of new telephones, reduce the amount of elastic used in corsets and girdles, forbid the manufacture of fishing tackle and fix prices on china, pottery and many cotton products such as sheets, blankets, diapers, towels and ginghams.

A SUMMARY:

Trucks—Effective May 15 local carriers, including stores, can make no special (one-call-to-a-trip) deliveries except to hospitals and the armed services and can make no "call-backs" or repeated attempts to deliver goods to the same person on the same day. In addition, local carriers must reduce their other mileage by 25 per cent as compared with corresponding months last year. In the inter-city trucking industry, all trucks must be loaded to capacity on outgoing trips and to at least 75 per cent capacity on return trips, with carriers pooling their facilities wherever necessary.

Telephones — Hereafter new telephones may not be installed except for persons engaged in direct war work or in occupations essential to public welfare, or unless existing exchange lines capacity can handle them without disrupting essential services. The Bell system estimated this would result in denial of about 200,000 applications this year for residential telephone service.

Prices—Ceilings were placed on the manufacturers' prices of hundreds of china and pottery items and on most cotton products now outside price control. The china price ceiling is based on the level of Oct. 1-15, 1941.

Elastic—The amount of elastic fabric which may be used in each corset, girdle, combination or brassiere was ordered reduced by about 50 per cent. Total output of manufacturers was cut by 25 per cent.

Fishing tackle—Effective May 31 manufacture of fishing tackle is prohibited. Production of fish hooks may be continued at a rate equal to one-half last year's.

How Delivery Order Affects Housewives

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 24—The government order requiring the reduction of mileage on delivery vehicles means the further curtailment of services housewives long have expected from business houses, milk companies and bread firms, experts agreed today.

The office of defense transportation order prohibits special deliveries after May 15, eliminates callbacks, and bans more than one delivery a day to any home. After June 1 merchandisers and local carriers must reduce mileage 25 per cent each month as compared with the corresponding 1941 month.

The milk and bread companies virtually have eliminated special deliveries already, and have cut callbacks to a minimum in most cities, officials said.

Prof. Robert B. Stoltz of the Ohio State university dairy technology department, said the order means milk companies who have not already done so probably will go to daylight deliveries so that collections can be made by salesmen as they bring the milk to the housewife.

He added that every-other-day delivery, already instituted in some cities, ultimately would become general.

Delaware To Be Site Of Tent, Awning Plant

DELAWARE, O., April 24—Negotiations for the location in Delaware of a plant manufacturing tents and awnings are virtually completed, the Chamber of Commerce announced yesterday.

The plant, one of a series of branches owned by a Detroit concern, would employ from 75 to 100 workers, most of them women.

The concern is now engaged in making tents and truck tarpaulins for the government. It holds contracts for a large amount of government work and is now engaged in decentralizing much of its manufacturing activity.

PUBLISHERS SUPPORT BOND SALE PLAN

Urge Enlistment of All Citizens in Voluntary Effort.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 24 — The American Newspaper Publishers' association unanimously adopted a resolution yesterday favoring the voluntary sale of war savings bonds and stamps in enlisting all citizens to help finance the war effort.

The resolution, jointly introduced by E. Palmer Hoyt of the Portland Oregonian, and Roy D. Moore of the Brush-Moore newspapers of Ohio, follows:

"Whereas newspapers and newspaper boys have played an important part in the sale of war savings bonds and stamps and whereas this part promises to be an increasingly important one in enlisting all citizens voluntarily to invest in the war effort, therefore be it resolved that the American Newspaper Publishers association, in convention assembled, expresses its appreciation of the fine work being done by the newspaper boys of this country in their sale of bonds and stamps and earnestly urges all newspaper readers to cooperate with these young Americans in their voluntary campaign to aid war financing."

Union Charges Misuse of Critical Materials

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 24—Rush Nixon, CIO official, contends that there has been "flagrant misuse of certain extremely critical defense materials" in General Motors Frigidaire plant No. 2 at Dayton, O.

Nixon, Washington representative of the United Electrical, Radio, Machine Workers of America, wrote Donald Nelson, chairman of the war production board, that "ice trays are being stamped out of solid copper plates and then being plated with tin."

Frank C. Lyons, Frigidaire's public relations representative, said at Dayton that the company used copper because its aluminum supply was surrendered as a more critical metal. This was done by Frigidaire and other refrigerator concerns, he said, with the knowledge of the government.

WALDO AND RICHWOOD COUPLE EXCHANGE VOWS

Miss Mildred Fischer Becomes Bride of W. H. Temple.

Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock Miss Mildred Fischer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fischer of east of Waldo, and Wayland H. Temple, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ethan Temple of Richwood, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of 75 friends and relatives.

The single ring ceremony was read by Rev. J. A. Currier of Delaware, former pastor of the Waldo Methodist church. Tapers in tall branched candelabra lighted the improvised altar which was banked with palms and greenery, and baskets of pink and white gladioli and assorted spring flowers. The tapers were lighted by little Alice Faye Shuster, niece of the bride.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Elizabeth Currier of Delaware played a program of nuptial music including "Spring," "Salut d'amour," "Trees" and for the processional the traditional wedding march. Miss Charlotte Trefz and Miss Betty Kraus of Marion seated the guests.

The bride was attired in a two-piece powder blue ensemble. The dress was made on princess lines with a white lace yoke. The jacket was trimmed with contrasting lace. Her accessories were beige. Her corsage was centered with a gardenia surrounded with pink rosebuds. For something old she wore a cameo brooch belonging to her maternal great-grandmother which has been worn by brides in her family for the last 150 years.

Her attendant, Miss Dora Schlecht of Waldo, wore a two-piece beige tunic dress with dark brown embroidered trim, and white and brown accessories. Her corsage was of pink and white sweet peas centered with pink rosebuds. She wore a mother of pearl lavalier, gift of the bride.

Mrs. Fischer selected for her daughter's wedding a flowered crepe dress. Her corsage was of pink and white sweet peas. The bridegroom's mother wore a dark blue crepe dress with a corsage of pink sweet peas.

Best man was the bridegroom's brother, Ethan Temple Jr. of Richwood. The bride's gifts to Miss Trefz and Miss Kraus were novelty sports pins, and she gave Miss Currier a flowered lucite compact. The bridegroom's gift to the best man was a leather billfold.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Fischer were hosts at a reception. The bride's table was decorated with blue and white ribbons, the bride's wedding colors. The crystal centerpiece was filled with American Beauty rosebuds. Crystal candle holders held tall white candles. A three-tiered wedding cake trimmed in pink and blue was at one end of the table. Assisting in serving were Mrs. James Shuster, sister of the bride, Mrs. Horace Wilson, Mrs. T. G. Kraus, Mrs. Maude Edwards and Mrs. Francis Schill.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Ed Green, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Green and family of Delaware; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Temple of Richwood, Pfc. Chester P. Rouse of Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.; Pvt. Malen W. Carter of Indian Town Gap, Pa.; Mrs. Ferd Hentze, Mrs. Ben Carter and daughter, Mrs. I. G. Kraus and family, Mrs. Francis Schill, Mrs. W. R. Bogart, Mrs. Myron Bogart, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jones, Miss Lucille Gerlin, of Marion; Mr. and Mrs. Levi Albaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gibbons and son of Cardington; Miss Lilah McIntire of Marysville, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles McMahan of Wooster.

When the couple departed for a short wedding trip, the bride was wearing a two-piece beige dress with beige accessories. Pinned to her coat was a corsage of pink carnations.

The former Miss Fischer graduated from Waldo High school, attended Marion Beauty School and was, until recently, associated with the Charm Beauty Shoppe of Marion. Mr. Temple attended Essex High school and is engaged in farming. For the present the couple will live with the bridegroom's parents.

MARION TWP. SCHOOL AREA CHANGE ASKED

Transfer Requested in Petition to County Board.

A petition for a transfer of territory in Marion township from one school district to another was presented at a meeting of the Marion county board of education last night in County Superintendent of Schools D. T. Mills' office on West Center street.

The petition, signed by about 20 persons, was to transfer the section of the school district lying north of the junction of routes 23 and four to the township line, running east to the Pennsylvania railroad and west to route 4. The change, which would become effective next school year, would transfer some children now enrolled at Linn school to City school territory. They would enroll next year in Marion city schools.

Present at the meeting besides Mr. Mills were A. B. Williams of Meeker, C. M. Kline of Claridon, B. H. Gast of Prospect and Dr. J. M. Ruckman of LaRue.

CIO AND MINE SPLIT IS SEEN

Predict UMW Housecleaning Will Oust Phillip Murray from Office.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 24—Some of the labor movement's best-informed sources were conceding today the inevitability of a showdown between John L. Lewis and his estranged "right arm," Phillip Murray, culminating not only in Murray's probable displacement as vice president of the United Mine Workers but in an attempt to expel him from membership as well.

Among significant recent developments were these:

Three top officials of the United Mine Workers (CIO) told Murray in a letter that the union convention would do some "housecleaning" at its October convention.

The miners continued to withhold per capita tax payments to the CIO, which Murray heads, while asking repayment of about $1,500,000 advanced to the CIO in its fledgling days when Lewis was its chief. The overdue per capita tax now totals about $60,000.

3. CIO officers replied with a dun for the per capita payments and declared that while, "all workers throughout the nation owe a deep debt to the United Mine Workers of America, this debt cannot be measured in dollars." They expressed the opinion the mine workers "did not and do not consider" the money advanced for organization purposes as a debt to be repaid in dollars and cents.

The "housecleaning" suggestion was interpreted widely as a threat of expulsion from membership, inasmuch as the miners do not choose their officers at conventions. That is done by referenda, the next of which will be held in December. Moreover, Lewis has the constitutional power to remove Murray from his $16,000 a year job as vice president "for insubordination or just and sufficient cause."

United Mine Workers' sources already were speaking of John O'Leary of Pittsburgh as the next vice president.

After the AFL-CIO split four years ago AFL President William Green was cited by the miners' international executive board for "disloyal acts and continued opposition to the policies of the United Mine Workers." He did not appear for trial and was expelled for "aiding and abetting an organization dual in purpose and character to the United Mine Workers of America." Green subsequently became a member of the musicians' union.

Expulsion of Murray, authoritative sources agree, would mean an organic split between the United Mine Workers and the CIO, and hence a third labor movement. The affiliation is little more than nominal now.

Friends of Murray said he would fight vigorously any attempt to deprive him of his lifelong membership in the miners' union, in which he has a large personal following.

In the graveyard softly sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave,

But whom we could not save.

In our hearts there comes a longing,
If you could only come home.

You shall never be forgotten,
Never shall your memory fade;
Sweetest thoughts will always linger

*Of our sister, Mrs. Mary Markley, who passed away one year ago today, April 24, 1941:

Dearest Mary how we miss you,

No more upon this earth we'll see
Your sweet and smiling face,
There is no one in this world
Who can ever take your place.

Now we must journey on without you,
Tho the day be long and sad,
Ever looking unto Jesus,

God takes our loved ones from our homes,
But never from our hearts,
It is hard for us to say goodbye,

May we all meet up in heaven,
Where no farewell tears are shed.

150 Attend Second Annual Banquet Of Marion Police

Toledo Judge Speaks on Changing Duties of Police and How Jobs Call for Streamlining.

Stating that the law enforcement officer of today requires personality and persuasiveness not needed by the officer of 30 years ago, Harvey G. Straub, judge of the municipal court in Toledo last night addressed about 150 members and guests of the Marion County Lodge No. 24, Fraternal Order of Police, in the ballroom at Hotel Harding.

It was the second annual banquet sponsored by the organization and several state officers and state police officers attended.

The judge discussed what, in his opinion, is "the streamlined police officer of today. "However," he said, "when I use the word 'streamline,' I do so with reservation. I do not refer to the physical make-up and beauty of the man. I use the term more to describe characteristics and qualifications of what people think the 1942 officer should have."

Police Duties Change

The speaker asserted that the tempo of the age governs police activity; the duties of the policeman before the advent of the automobile differed considerably from those of the modern traffic officer he said.

"Their activities then were comparatively simple when viewed in the light of present law-enforcement duties," Judge Straub continued. "Of course there were numerous petty offenses then as well as now, but now, in addition, there are the complexities of enforcing city, state and national laws and regulations."

Competency in the modern police officer, he said, among other things, requires diplomacy in handling the public and "respectable citizens" who inadvertently violate minor laws. The treatment accorded such violators should surely be much different, he said, from that which is accorded the rough criminal.

Educational Requirements

Judge Straub spoke of the high education which modern policemen must posses and mentioned the difficulties imposed by the enforcement of innumerable minor laws which have come into being in the wake of increased governmental supervision.

"Our streamlined officer must sympathize with the petty offender," he said," not aggravate him by growling 'Tell it to the judge.' He must be a psychoanalyst in addition to qualifying as a diplomat and an executive."

In referring to the award of the modern officer, Judge Straub said: "Nowhere in the realm of public activity does the citizenry expect more than from the law enforcement officer; but he probably is the least appreciated of any other official."

The welcome address was given by Mayor Russell C. Snare who spoke briefly on the responsibility which faces police and civic officials in Marion at present.

Acting as toastmaster was Dr. Carl W. Sawyer who was introduced by Police Chief William E. Marks.

Others On Program

Others at the speaker's table who made short talks were Lieut. S. D. Augenstein of the state highway patrol in Findlay; John Hamilton of Ashtabula, state president of the F. O. P.; Jack Erwin of the University of Toledo, director of police education in northwestern Ohio and former instructor in the police school here; J. P. Rockenfield of Chicago, special agent of the automobile protective and information bureau and Lieut. Hoyt of Purdue, both of whom are now engaged in instruction at the Marion police traffic school; Clarence Fauble of the Toledo police department; Earl E. Thomas, state representative; William Murphy of the Columbus police department and state secretary of the F. O. P.; Captain Frank Klapp, intelligence officer connected with the Scioto Ordnance plant and William Davis of Chicago, attorney.

Rev. Harry Bell offered the invocation and Rev. Father William J. Speckerman gave the benediction. Music throughout the dinner hour was furnished by Bob McMahon's orchestra. Judge Straub's speech was broadcast over WMRN.

FIVE INJURED IN CRASH NEAR WALDO

All from Detroit; Two in Serious Condition.

Five occupants of a car driven by a Detroit youth were injured, two seriously, when the auto swerved across the road and crashed it to an oncoming truck on Route 23 just South of Waldo about 3 p. m. yesterday.

Michael E. Bozek, 19, driver, told Marion Tide highway patrolmen he was ahead of his northbound auto when it slowed down and that he was unable to stop in time to avoid hitting the car without swerving out around it. He said as he swerved, he collided with a southbound truck driven by Herman F. Stone, 49, of Columbus.

Injured in the accident were Mildred Lon 15, Beverly Brodabeck, 15, Mrs. Anthony Panijan, 28, and Schroll, all of Detroit. All were taken to City hospital in the Boyd and Uncapher ambulance. Both Mrs. Brodabeck and Mrs. Lon were reported in serious condition.

Miss Brodbeck suffered multiple fracture of the right arm, a compound fracture of the right hip and possible internal injuries. Miss Lon suffered severe scalp lacerations, a possible skull fracture and internal injuries. Mrs. Panijan suffered possible internal chest injuries. The attending physician said Mrs. Panijan's condition is fairly good and that her year-and-a-half-old son, David, was uninjured. The doctor said Schroll complained of a neck injury but that an X-ray indicated he had no broken bones.

He was released from the hospital and taken to the police station where charges of reckless operation were filed against him by patrolmen. He pleaded not guilty and posted $15 bond pending setting of a trial date.

RUSSIA

might have inspired the comment.)

Only yesterday at his press conference, the official Russian press spokesman, S. A. Lozovsky, vice commissar of foreign affairs, was asked what the Russian position would be if such a landing, as is now confirmed, were made on Russian soil. Lozovsky replied:

"One can imagine dozens of suppositions. Let's wait until something happens."

Avoids Question

Asked what would happen in event of a forced landing in the Moscow region, the spokesman replied with another question:

"Why a forced landing if we have good airdromes for American and British bombers?"

Pressed for an answer on the position of Russia on any landings on Russian soil by "planes of Russia's allies or planes of some power with which Russia has a neutrality pact," Lozovsky answered:

"The correspondent is inclined toward philosophic discussions. I am not."

Ambassador Standley was at Moscow yesterday and was received by Joseph Stalin, in the presence of Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov, several hours before Tass circulated the Khabarovsk dispatch.

Under the Moscow-Tokyo pact, Russia is technically neutral in the Pacific war, just as Japan is technically obliged to keep hands off the German-Russian struggle. Neutral nations are required to intern war parties which stray into their territory. To do otherwise would offend the opposing forces. Such internees are universally treated with courtesy.

(Washington spokesmen have never confirmed official Japanese declarations that United States planes took part in the raids on Tokyo, Yokohama, Nagoya and Kobe Saturday. Silence was maintained also upon the Tass announcement.

(State department officials said they were withholding comment pending receipt of a report from the U. S. embassy in Russia.)

Beaverbrook Urges Britain To Open Western Front

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 24—Lord Beaverbrook, Britain's great production minister, urged today that Britain open a second front in Western Europe while Russia, holding the line in the east, is supplied by Lord Beaverbrook in the war for the year 1942.

The British top-ranked coordinator of war production declared last night that by holding the Germans in check, possibly even by defeating them, the Russians may be the means of bringing the whole war structure down.

Addressing the American Newspaper Publishers association's luncheon meeting, possibly even by defeating them, the Russians may dinner Beaverbrook himself publisher of the London Daily Express and the Evening Standard, said of the proposed British offensive:

"This is a chance, an opportunity to bring the war to an end here and now. But if the Russians are defeated and driven out of the war, no will such a chance come to us again.

"Strike out to help Russia. Strike out violently. Strike even recklessly, but any event such blows that real help will be our share and contribution to the Russian battlefront."

Favors Russian Theory

Expressing belief in the Russian theory that the best form of defense is attack, he called upon Britain to "adopt it by setting up somewhere along the 2,000 mile, of coastline now held by the Germans, a second front in western Europe."

Beaverbrook spoke from the same platform as Francis B. Sayre, U. S. high commissioner to the Philippines; Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the U. S. fleet, and others at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel dinner closing the ANPA's 56th annual convention.

In blunt and frank detail, the British publisher disclosed for the first time just how close his homeland was to disaster in the early stages of the war before the United State gave both barrels to the war effort against the axis.

"It was just two years ago," he said, "that we lost everything we possessed, save only our soldiers. We had to begin all over again. Nothing left to use but a portion of our army. All the weapons gone. The cupboard bare. Not even a rifle.

"Guns we lost in thousands, vehicles by the fifty thousand. Almost all our tanks and many airplanes.

"But the biggest disaster was our naval losses. Forty-seven warships were sunk in the operations off Norway and Dunkirk. And when the evacuation was over, half our destroyer fleet lay awaiting repairs in our shipyards.

Then Came Battle of Britain

"Hardly had we emerged from this peril when we were called upon to fight the battle of Britain. And I must tell you that when that struggle began we had in reserve only five fighter aircraft in the storage units."

"We were defeated in Greece. Crete was a weary burden and cost us many valuable warships and transports too. Other events followed swiftly, and before the year was out the British army had fought major engagements on seven separate fronts in the Middle East...."

Two big years for Britain, 1940 and 1941, he went on, showed that "the German plan of campaign was destroyed. Hard fighting, brave deeds and vast powers of endurance," he said, "was the record of the British army in two years of battle.

"Then came the Japs. They caught us unawares in Malaya and Singapore. We have little to say in defense of our errors. We cannot explain our failures. We can only resolve to profit by our punishment and strive after higher efficiency and greater resources in the days to come."

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 24—The British reaction to Lord Beaverbrook's New York speech advocating opening of a second European front varied today from the jubilant "you tell 'em, Beaver," of the man in the street to cautionary remarks in informed military circles.

Although British said the address by the British lease-lend coordinator could not be regarded as coming from the war cabinet, many observers held it as symptomatic of a governmental change of heart toward the idea of a European front this year.

WAR PLANT

chapel has been stripped of its church finishings and converted into a branch of the war plant construction setup.

Down another road which is closed to general traffic scores of automobiles of worker are parked. Building foundations are taking shape. A dozen or more temporary frame buildings have been erected. One of them is a sign shop, and neatly lettered signs made there identify the other buildings such as a field hospital, engineers' field office and so on. One of these frame buildings has a counter and windows along one side. When placed in operation it will become a commissary where workers can get a lunch on the grounds.

Also on this road are assembled huge quantities of implements—wheelbarrows designed for handling concrete, various tools and a lumber yard that is growing daily. Also, there is a long row of field toilets, each equipped with its own septic tank, which can be moved to various points on the site wherever needed.

Conference Topics

Visitors to the site gape curiously as officials connected with the work and speculate interestedly about what these officials are talking about as they go about the site. The visitors know the plant is for war production and they know that many things about the plant will be kept secret. However, the steady series of conferences going on among officials are apt to be far less sensational than the visitors suspect. For example, one of the conferences might be devoted to the matter of drainage—what drainage the farmers already had provided in the way of field tile. One might learn at such a conference that a careful survey of all field tile is being made by the tedious process of contacting the farmers who laid the tile. One might also learn that perhaps some of the heavy grading machinery had crushed some of the tile and that some drainage work might have to be done in some areas to take care of the stoppages.

One matter brings up another. The conversation might drift from drainage to the related problem of how to safeguard the area against mosquitos and the disease they might spread if the drainage problem weren't completely solved. That quite logically might bring up the question about what is to be done about the pond near the Likens cemetery. And so on, almost endlessly, over a long list of problems that must at some time be taken into consideration in completing the job.

Need Strong Bridges

Another problem getting attention now is roads and bridges. Huge concrete tile sections measuring several feet in diameter are to be used to handle the flow of streams at some points where shaky bridges now span a stream. These can be made strong enough to support some of the heavy equipment being used on the site—big grading units that weigh up around the 20-ton mark.

On the Linn-Hipsher road a new heavy-duty bridge is being built across Rocky Creek. This would represent a fair-sized job in itself, but it becomes only an incident in the huge war-plant schedule. Dams have been dug, a by-pass channel excavated and heavy, reinforced abutments of concrete poured. The job will be finished quickly.

Meanwhile, crews of surveyors are amassing sheets of data about the topography of the land and other information needed for careful planning of the plant. When they get finished, construction officials will know more about the huge tract than most people know about their own back yards.

Car Barns Used for Auto Storage

The former city car barns on North State street are being used for storage of cars of army engineers here in connection with the Scioto Ordnance Plant.

Capt. Robert W. Lockridge, area engineer, said the barns had been in use for some time and that it was possible that minor repairs might be made there in the future.

Formal approval to change the location of the barns to the business district was given at a meeting of the city planning commission Wednesday night at the city office on a petition filed by Ed C. Watters, owner of the barns. Notice of the board's action will be filed with city council Monday night.

Ousted School Head Stops Student Strike

The students gathered in front of the school building yesterday to protest the refusal to rehire Superintendent Russell Schafer.

The demonstration ended after Schafer told the students:

"It is your American privilege through your parents to state your opinions to the school board, but it isn't American to strike."

ASK SPEEDUP OF AUTO SALES

House Banking Committee Hears Testimony on RFC Financing Proposal.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 24—Confronted with a claim that some 1942 model automobile might make their first appearance on the streets as late as 1972, the house banking committee called on the office of price administration today for an explanation of its car rationing regulations.

The decision to ask OPA to explain what some committee members said were "very complex" regulations came after an automobile dealer spokesman said some dealers estimated that under current regulations the present supply of new cars might last as long as thirty years.

In some cases, said Charles W. Bishop, counsel for the National Automobile Dealers association, local rationing boards were so confused by the regulations that rather than take a chance on violating them they often turned down worthy applications for new car purchases.

Bishop said he had made no study of the length of time that would be required to dispose of new cars under present orders, but estimates of several large manufacturers were that from two to three years would be required, while dealers' estimates were much higher.

He explained that approximately 600,000 new cars were in stock, and they were moving slowly because of "very complex rationing rules."

The OPA representatives were expected to be the last heard by the committee before it acts on legislation to authorize the RFC to give financial aid to dealers either by making loans or purchasing their unsold cars after 10 months.

Late yesterday the committee heard Jesse Jones, commerce secretary and RFC head, explain plans under which he said the government would purchase all stocks of new automobiles, trucks and trailers in the hands of dealers or manufacturers desiring to sell them.

Under this program, Jones told the committee, dealers would be able to dispose of their stocks without a loss, and later could reacquire the products from the RFC at the cost of the RFC plus four per cent interest.

and "the Germans lost 1,200 men and officers in killed alone."

Conjecture Raised

The shift of Finnish troops to bolster the German armies below Lenmgrad, away from their own northern battleground, stirred conjecture that Adolf Hitler may be using them as "hostages" to keep war-weary Finland from making a separate peace.

Moreover, German troops are said to have moved recently into the Finnish front.

In the Crimean campaign, where German and Soviet troops have been deadlocked for months, dispatches to the army newspaper Red Star reported that Russian troops had captured "the Golden Range." A key Nazi stronghold, after four days of heavy fighting.

Hitler's field headquarters asserted that Nazi troops had made "a number of successful advances" in the Donets river industrial basin, but gave no details. The Nazis also reported that German mountain troops fighting in far northern Lapland, in Finland, inflicted "heavy losses" in driving off repeated Russian attacks.

With the deep snows of winter gradually melting, turning the 2,000-mile battleline to slush, the Moscow radio broadcast a Pravda editorial declaring:

"Conditions for an increase in the scope of our attacks are becoming more favorable. The Red army, which beat the enemy in the winter, will beat him in the spring and summer."

British and Jap Naval Showdown Develops in East

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

Events seem to be developing rapidly towards a major showdown between the Japanese and the British in the Indian ocean and that means a great naval battle.

Japan's control of the eastern Indian ocean, and the danger that this dominion may be extended throughout that vast sea, is one of the grave threats to the allied cause. The Middle East, whose shores are washed by the Indian ocean, has been designated by Hitler as the possible meeting ground of the axis forces. Should the Japs and Nazis manage to join hands there it might mean a thirty-year war.

There are two new signs pointing to a possible major engagement in the Indian ocean. One is the indication that the allies may be preparing to take over the strategic French island of Madagascar, to keep the Japs from occupying it. The second is a tiny news item which suggests huge possibilities.

This latter is the report in French Vichy that a British flotilla passed through the strait of Gibraltar into the Mediterranean. There is no satisfactory explanation of where these fighting ships are going. In view of the emergency in the Indian ocean one can't help feeling that this flotilla may well be taking a short cut through the Mediterranean and the Suez canal to help deal with the Japanese fleet.

Trinidad Paper Relates Experiences of Marion Troops Now at Curacao

Soldiers Find Island Pleasant Place To Live, but Sub Threats Leave Little Time To Enjoy It.

A general picture of the first days of the United States troops on Curacao is contained in a Trinidad newspaper account sent by Corp. James C. Woods Jr., one of a group of Marion men in the forces sent to garrison the Netherlands West Indies island.

According to the news account, dated April 1, the troops had no sooner landed at Curacao and Aruba than submarines emerged from the Caribbean waters and began shelling Arbua and sending torpedoes onto the beaches of Curacao and Aruba.

"Unused to the tropical climates and with no time to make camp, the troops immediately went into action, taking up guard posts, forming motor patrols and preparing the heavy gun emplacements. Working day and night, without grumbling and without proper quarters, the troops continued keeping their watch, prepared for any further enemy activity. This alertness continues with very little liberty or time off," the news account stated.

Pleasant Surprise

The beautiful tropical island of Curacao was a pleasant surprise to the men, who had expected their destination would be "one of great, dense jungles, infested swamps and plenty of poison plants and snakes. In fact, conditions once the barracks are constructed, will in all probability be better than those most of us left back in the States," the news report stated.

"Curacao is completely blacked out each night, making the bright tropical moon even more outstanding and romantic than could be imagined. It certainly is no help to a 'busted' soldier thousands of miles from his home. The activity, however, in preparing the defenses of the island is keeping everyone up to his neck in work and details. In fact, three weeks have gone by and the troops have had little time to even improve their temporary pyramidal 'tent quarters.'"

Provide Entertainment

The men have motion picture shows every night, form swimming contests and are scheduling basketball and baseball games with local Curacao teams.

A short time before the confined and 'restless' men were sent from the States they were sitting around a Sibly stove in sergeant's tent in Mississippi wondering where they were to be sent. The talk was of tropics, jungles, swamps, mosquitoes, snakes, savages and poisoned plants.

A top-kick, wishing to test the fidelity of a group of new boys just in as a replacement, asked: "Suppose I was entrapped by an octopus-like rubber plant that was slowly crushing the life from me, what would you do?"

After several moments of embarrassed silence, a private replied: "I'd water the plant."

Troops' Own Paper

Corporal Woods, son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Woods of 295 Lafayette street and on leave-of-absence as an employe of The Star, also sent a copy of the one-sheet daily newspaper of the American troops, "Force."

The mimeographed sheet contains re-prints of Associated Press items from the world centers of interest in the war, announcements of movies and basketball, a calendar of Sunday church services for Protestants, Catholics and Jews, a report from Washington rescinding orders that enlisted men must obtain permission of their superiors to marry, and several jokes.

U. S. RAID

Tokyo and Moscow, but U. S. embassy officials in Kuibyshev said Ambassador William H. Standley had been informed of the circumstances and had asked Washington for instructions.

At Peace With Japan

Russia is still technically at peace with Japan, and Tokyo newspapers stressed the fact along with the hope that friendly relations between the two countries might be strengthened through "Russia's better understanding of the greater East Asia war."

"There is no reason why Japan and Russia should quarrel," said the newspaper Asahi.

Other Tokyo comment asserted that "Britain and the United States have little chance to pit Russia against Japan."

Tokyo's nervousness over relations with Russia stems in part from the extreme vulnerability of Japan to bombing and submarine attacks based at the Soviet port of Vladivostok, only 680 miles across the sea of Japan from Tokyo.

So long as Russia and Japan remain at peace, U. S. warplanes would be prohibited, legally, from using Vladivostok or other Soviet bases to attack Japan.

Other developments in the Far Pacific war:

Burma—Capture of three key cities by Japan's armies sharpened the crisis for British-Chinese forces today, but British military quarters said British troops falling back from Taungdwingyi had straightened the sagging allied line "most skillfully."

Retreat Compelled

These quarters said the retreat of Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's hopelessly out-numbered Chinese troops from Pyinmana, 150 miles south of Mandalay, had compelled the British to withdraw from Taungdwingyi, 40 miles to the northwest.

Loikaw, capital of the Burma Karen-ni states, 65 miles southeast of Pyinmana, was the third key allied city to fall to the invaders in the new all-out Japanese offensive.

Chinese headquarters said Japanese troops out-numbered the Chinese garrison at Loikaw by 10 to one.

Japanese forces, bolstered by fresh, rested troops and commanding an overwhelming superiority in planes and tanks, were reported hurling all their strength into the battle in an attempt to break through the Mandalay before the drenching monsoon rains begin in south and central Burma.

Australia—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported that allied warplanes heavily bombed the Japanese base at Rabaul, New Britain, blasting barracks, warehouses and shipping and machine-gunning Japanese troops.

Enemy planes attacked bomb-scarred Port Moresby, allied base in southern New Guinea three times, the communique said.

SUGAR

Sugar rationing in this group will be based on these figures.

Institution and industrial group: The quantity of sugar delivered and accepted by the registrant during 1941.

Arrangements for the registration were made by John P. Probst, county rationing coordinator, Supt. E. E. Holt of the public school system, and Mr. Snyder, school site administrator. Mr. Probst and Mr. Holt are in Columbus today attending a statewide meeting on the sugar rationing program.

Harding High school pupils will be dismissed at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday and Wednesday to clear the high school for the registrants and also to free the faculty members, all of whom will serve as registrars.

"We have had a wonderful response from the teachers," Mr. Snyder said this morning. "They have said that if they can further the war effort in this way they are glad to do it. Most of them have cancelled other engagements so as to be free for the two-night, four-session registration program."

U. S. HAMMERS JAPS WITH 'AUTOS,' HENDERSON SAYS

Makes First Official Statement About Raid.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 23—United States forces "are hammering the Japs with autos," Price Administrator Leon Henderson declared in a radio address tonight.

"The Japs killed our boys on Bataan with shrapnel scraps some of which were marked with the name of an automobile manufacturer," he said.

"Tokyo was bombed a few days ago with steel that might have been used to make 1942 automobiles. We are hammering the Japs with our automobiles—not the scrap from old jalopies, but the new steel that might have been 1943 models."

It was the first statement by a government official that American bombs had fallen on Tokyo. Thus far the war and navy departments have not confirmed Japanese reports of the bombing of Japanese cities last Saturday.

Police Fingerprint Records Lead To Clearing Burglary

The practice of Marion police in taking fingerprints at the scenes of burglaries and thefts, where prints are available, paid dividends today.

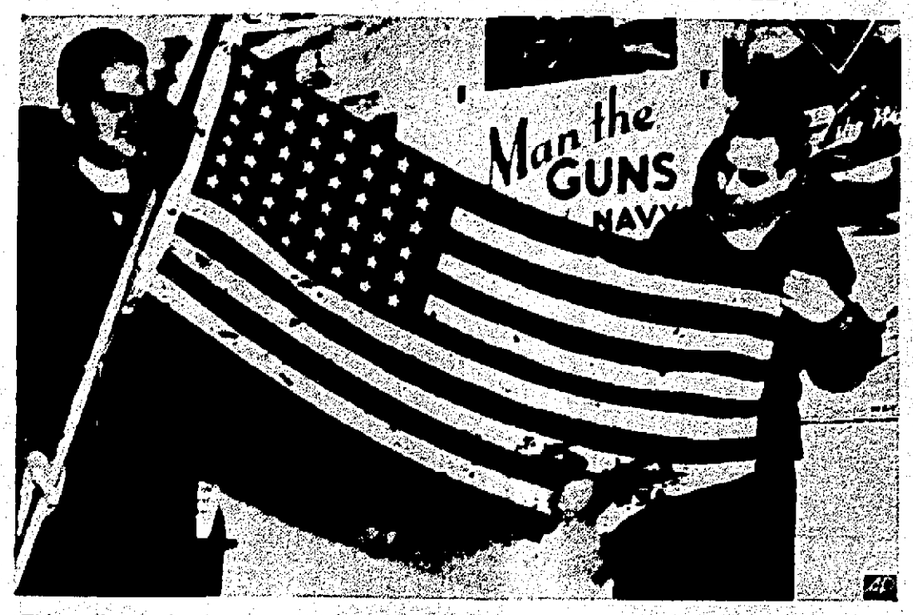
Finger prints taken at a burglary of the Snider Service station at 587 Delaware avenue April 14 aided federal authorities in tracing two youths, aged 15 and 16, of Detroit, who are being held in Lexington, Ky., in connection with an alleged auto theft.

City police heard a call over the police radio set concerning the capture of the two boys and they immediately checked their fingerprint files. They discovered that prints sent them by federal authorities checked with prints taken at the scene of the break-in.

A radio, valued at about $12, and a quantity of chewing gum were stolen from the station, Bruce Snider, station manager, reported. A window at the south side of the station had been broken to gain entrance.

A simplified line of standard food containers is being developed by the glass industry in cooperation with the department of commerce.

OLD GLORY BATTLE-SCARRED BUT UNBOWED



This oil-stained American flag was flying proudly from a captain's gig in Pearl Harbor when the Japs staged their surprise raid Dec. 7, and was torn from its staff as the bombs began falling. Lieut. Comdr. Fred Welden retrieved it from the bay and sent it to a brother in Iowa. Holding the flag are L. E. White (left) and Clyde E. Wilson, yeomen in the naval recruiting office in Kansas City, Mo.

Japs Send More Planes but Tigers Still Get 'em

Outnumbered A. V. G. Fliers Blast 15 and Possibly 20 in One Battle Over Burma.

The following dispatch from Daniel DeLuce has been delayed in transit from the remote interior of embattled Burma. It remains a graphic picture of the grim battle against great odds being fought by the heroic Flying Tigers of the American Volunteer Group. According to the latest battlefront communiques, the boys of the AVG still are waging that fight in the air constantly retaining Japanese air strength.

By DANIEL DELUCE
AP War Correspondent

WITH THE AMERICAN VOLUNTEER GROUP, IN BURMA April 10 — (Delayed) — Driven out of Mingaladon and then Magwe, the Fighting Yanks of the American Volunteer Group, with the colors of China and Britain on their plane wings, now are braced against the inevitable heavy Japanese assaults on their new base defending northern Burma.

Already they have cracked down on the enemy's numerically superior forces, and have destroyed an entire squadron of the invaders' finest aircraft.

In two dogfights ranging 100 miles over the Green mountains of China's Yunnan province and Burma's Shan states, the American pilots broke up a swarm of Japanese air raiders and blasted 15 out of the sky.

Five other enemy planes were destroyed.

The Japanese planes were on a special 1,000-mile mission and were out to catch the A V G. aground. Twice, however, the heavily gunned Japanese Zero fighters fell into an ambush in the clouds.

The waiting Yanks raked them with a savage fire and Japanese planes hurtled from the skies, trailing clouds of white smoke.

None of the American fliers was lost.

A Texan, who was a Royal Air Force sergeant pilot in Canada after washing out at the U. S. air corps training school at Love Field, Dallas, Tex., had the closest call.

During the course of the melee he got on the tail of a Zero fighter and, because of the difficulty he'd had confirming five previous combat victims in Burma, he followed his adversary down until he saw him crash in flame.

While the Texan was thus engaged another Japanese plane got on his tail and sent a burst of machine-gun fire through his instrument board. Oil spurted over the Texan, blinding him, and he made a crash landing.

As he sat in his wrecked plane, half-stunned another enemy plane swooped low with blazing guns and narrowly missed finishing him off.

Wednesday noon (April 8) a fast twin-engined Japanese reconnaissance bomber, possibly a Heinkel or JU-88 (German) model, scouted the field and eluded two pursuing American fliers flying with throttles wide open. Then in mid-afternoon a Japanese fighter formation was reported enroute.

Go Up To Wait

Squadron Leader Arvid Olson of Chicago and Bob Little of Seattle, went aloft with Ed Overend of Coronado, Calif., Johnny Donovan of Montgomery, Ala., R. T. Smith of Lincoln, Neb., Fritz Wold of Shawano, Wis., Cliff Groh of Chicago and Fred Hodges of Memphis, Tenn., at the controls of the older planes.

The Japanese suddenly swooped over the runway but there were no crowds of stationary aircraft. They combed the edges of the field, hunting for concealed prey.

Nearly five miles high in the cloud-patched sky more of the enemy hovered.

Then the Americans counter-attacked!

Brown streaks of lightning dived at the low-flying strafers. Above the scream of motors and crackling gunfire, stricken Japanese planes sounded like exploding bombs when they crashed to the ground.

The Japanese cruising high in the sky stayed there, just dim silver specks to ground observers, while one after another ten of their mates died fighting and the remainder broke and fled in their damaged ships.

Wednesday's score was Olson one and Donovan one, their first victories; Overend, Groh, Hodges and Little, one apiece; and Smith and Wold, two each.

Hodges' pretty bride of six days, the former Helen Anderson of Rangoon, saw from a hilltop the lanky Tennessean's triumph of the air.

Japanese air activity the following day dropped off to the point where only one reconnaissance plane wandered into the defensive zone.

This afternoon (April 19) the Japanese returned — in confident, buzzing V formations of three planes each—stalking two miles up in puffy thick clouds for the kill. Possibly they expected to find a maimed American Volunteer Group helpless aground.

They tested their guns and made ready to dive.

Then what must be the Japanese pilots' idea of hell broke loose—machine-guns firing from above and behind their tails with heavy tracers and armor-piercing bullets slashing at the unarmored navy Zeros.

Bob Keeton, a former blocking halfback in Colorado college football, Bob Brous of Cicero, Ill., and big Bob Smith were drawing first blood.

Smoke geysered from a crashing Japanese plane midway up a mountain, another dug into ploughed land beside a river, another burned out of sight across a ridge.

Bill Reed of Marion, Ia., ace, was practically smothered with hot oil when an oil cap ripped off his windshield, but hit a navy Zero with a tough angle shot and saw it burst in flames.

Then he slipped into a cloud bank to escape pursuing enemy craft and flew by instruments.

"Get ready in case of fire," he radioed Olson, who was calling signals at the communications shack. "I'm coming in to land covered with oil."

Another message came almost immediately, from Smith:

"Hey, if anybody isn't doing anything, come over here—three Zeroes, east of the river over the hill."

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, April 25

WHILE THERE may be much high pressure and energy expended in the direction of major objectives and cherished ambitions on this day yet it may be well to be armed with resolution, perseverance, decisive action and plans in order to cope with obstacles, delays and determined opposition, from elders, strangers, females and possibly from the public or other organized group or corporate body. Tact, compromise and diplomacy may win out against stubborn, malicious antagonisms.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves unusually active and energetic in the attainment of important objectives or much desired ambitions, during the year, but they should be fortified by resolution, perseverance and practical and constructive programs and methods in order to overcome determined opposition and delays and obstacles, coming from old persons or institutions, from strange sources or from feminine antagonism. The public, or other groups, may withhold cooperation, but there should be influential friends ready to assist.

A child born on this day should be energetic, ambitious, constructive, bold and determined, which it may need to overcome obstacles.

A new type of gas line and meter has been developed for starting motors of cars operated by gas generators and are now rationed by the government.

12 Million Civilians Call Him "Boss"

Gen. DeWitt, Busiest Man on West Coast, Is Getting Things Done.

By SAM JACKSON
Wide World Writer

SAN FRANCISCO—Lieut. Gen. John Lesesne DeWitt comes very near being all things to all men.

He's the authority who called off the Rose Bowl game as far as California was concerned and closed up its big racing plants.

He's the man who's transplanting the Japanese from the coast inland.

He's the power whom thousands of civilian defense workers are trying to please and who makes public officials step lively.

In short, he's the commanding general of the Western Defense Command. This is the army's entire organization in the part of the country that directly faces the Japanese danger. It comprises the eight westernmost states and Alaska, with a civil population of 12,000,000.

Though he is personally reticent and very, very busy with strictly army affairs he cannot help being a public figure—probably the most conspicuous one in the entire west. His name is in the western press more often than Douglas MacArthur's.

Can't Avoid Notice

This is partly because of the ceaseless flow of orders that go out, many of them vitally affecting civilian life, and all signed, "J. L. DeWitt, commanding."

DeWitt is 62 years old and has been in the army 44 years. He started not by the West Point route, but by taking an examination for a second lieutenancy while he was a student at Princeton during the Spanish-American war.

Yet his background is army through and through. He is the son of a general and the brother of a general, and his one son is a major. Born at Fort Sidney, Neb., he lived at western army posts long enough ago to remember when there was Indian fighting.

Soon after he was commissioned he saw action in the Philippines, and has served four separate tours of duty there. In the first World war he was overseas as an officer of the supply service and was awarded the distinguished service medal and elected an officer of the Legion of honor. His various peacetime assignments included a four-year stretch as quartermaster general.

LT. GEN. DeWITT

Always At Work

In his San Francisco headquarters, DeWitt works seven days a week and has an army cot in his office. He used to be quite a horseman but has little time for riding now, and says his reading has been cut to strictly military subjects.

Mild mannered, but with a firm ringing voice born of long command of men, DeWitt is a pleasant and smiling talker when he has time to unbend. He professes that he has spent an uneventful life, fails to recall any especially memorable incidents in his career.

From the beginning of his administration, people in all walks of life have learned that they're living under a general who means business.

He has restored the military salute in public, limited the hours his soldiers may be sold liquor, and made them slow down their gleeful speed in their jeeps. He's cracked down on San Francisco for its ineffective blackout and on Reno for its vice, and went to bat in Washington about the leakage of military news out of Alaska. Land and other public installations have been requisitioned right and left.

Still his most discussed order is his prohibition of crowds of large size, which struck the sporting world like a belt from the blue just before the famous Rose Bowl football game. General DeWitt is grimly playing the game of war.

Five Marion County Teams To Enter Ohio Wesleyan Relays Tomorrow

Harding to Enter Eight Events; Green Camp, Prospect, Pleasant and Morral Enter "B" Races.

Marion Harding High school and at least four Marion county Class B schools will be represented Saturday in the eleventh annual Ohio Wesleyan university relays.

Coach George Niemi of Harding High school announced today plans to send a skeleton Harding team to the relays have been completed. Coaches at Green Camp, Prospect, Pleasant and Morral will send teams, but only Prospect will be entered in a majority of events.

* * *

Four Marion Co. Class B Teams Entered

Track coaches at Prospect, Pleasant, Morral and Green Camp, of the county school system have entered teams in the Class B fixture. Of the four only Prospect is expected to enter a complete squad.

Coach Keller, Prospect mentor whose teams have yet to receive their first defeat in nine years of dual meet campaigning, said yesterday he excepted to enter athletes in all but the pole vault, 880-yard relay and mile relay.

Ralph Redmon, Carl Oehler and Everett Johnson will compete in the discus event. The former two and Richard Seiler or Charles Schorr will be entered in the shot-put. In the recent Prospect invitational relays the Prospect trio finished second to Green Camp in the shot-put and won the discus.

Robert Dodrill, Dick Issler and Donald Hickok will attempt to repeat their invitational feat in the Ohio Wesleyan broad jump event. Their combined leaps measured 56 feet, 3 inches, almost 4 feet under the county relay record.

Coach Keller has picked Paul Gast, Wayne Temple and Loren Gast to represent Prospect in the high jump event. This trio finished second in last week's invitational meet with a total height of 15 feet, 2 inches, four inches lower than Green Camp's winning mark and 8 inches below the all-time relays record.

Strong On Track

Prospect will be unusually strong in the 480-yard shuttle hurdles, the 440-yard relay and the medley relay. The Keller-coached combine racked victories in the former two and finished second to Harpster of Wyandot county in the third event.

Everett Johnson, Paul Gast, Robert Ward and Robert Schmidt will run the hurdles relay. Gast and Ward will team with Robert Dodrill and either Loren Gast, Donald Hickok or Ralph Redmon. Dodrill, L. Gast, Earl Baseler and Cecil Oehler have been nominated for the medley relay grind.

Gerald Wilson, Cecil Oehler and Earl Baseler are certainties in the two-mile relay, but the anchor position lies between Stan Kirby or Arthur Schorr.

Last year Prospect netted two points to land in the scoring column for the third straight year. Caledonia was the only other Marion county team to score, winning first place in the Class B broad jump.

Pleasant Entries

Coach Merton Porter's Pleasant township squad will enter the races as heavy favorites to cop the mile relay event. Winners of the invitation run last week with a record-smashing 3:45.5 mark, .3 seconds under the former county relay record, Al Hogue, sensational senior 440-yard dash star anchored the record mile with a .53 quarter-mile.

Jim, John and Dean Cusick will attempt to repeat their invitational feat in the pole vault. Their combined leaps totaled 28 feet, 6 inches.

Harry Harvey will team with the Curie trio in the 180-yard shuttle hurdles, while Bill Shipley, Al Hogue and Jim Cusick will handle the discus chore.

Coach Porter has named Earl Bender, Jim Ferryman, Dick Blank and Dave Zachman for both the medley and 880-yard relays. Ralph Lichtenberger may replace Zachman in the 880 roster.

Green Camp List

Coach Leo Barnhart of Green Camp school has named four youths to positions on three teams. Norman Weston, Charles Carr and Kenneth Jerew will compete in both the discus and shot-put. Last Saturday the trio placed first in the invitational shot-put and second in the discus. Carr and Jerew will team with Ray Annette in the high jump event.

Morral Coach Donald Fair is banking on a quartet of sophomores and juniors to deliver in a pair of events. Wilmer Bibler, Robert Roberts and Bill Rush or Bill Schoritzer will participate in both the 880-yard relay and broad jump events. Roberts and Bibler will compete in the 100-yard dash in open competition.

Harding Entries:

Bill Daley, Charles Roberts, Paul Schaadt and Harold Jenkins, all backfield men on last year's N. C. O. championship football team, will enter the 440-yard relay.

Roberts and Jenkins will team with DeWitt Cook and Dick Mulvaine in the 880-yard relay.

Day Hurst, John Stock, Roger Talmadge and Allen Swain have been named to start the 480-yard shuttle hurdles relay, while DeWitt Cook, Dick Mulvaine, Bob Emery and Jim Gwilyn will run the medley relay grind.

Day Hurst, Clarence Wright and George Isself, will compete in the shot put, while Day Hurst and Wright will team with Tom Hurst in the discus event.

The high jump team will be composed of Charles Roberts, Allen Swain and Donald Mathias.

BREWERS' FIRST LOSS IS ST. PAUL'S FIRST LEAGUE VICTORY

Indianapolis Beats Columbus by 10 to 7 Count; Toledo Defeats Louisville.

By The Associated Press

A pair of streaks came to an end in the American Association yesterday as Milwaukee's six-game winning run was broken by St. Paul, which thereby gained its first victory after dropping six in a row.

The Saints defeated the league-leading Brewers, 3-2, with a blast of three runs in the last of the ninth. But the firm hold the Milwaukee team had grabbed on first place was unimpaired as its two closest pursuers, Kansas City and Louisville, lost—both in extra innings.

Louisville, after scrapping for 11 innings with Toledo, finally succumbed to the Mud Hens, 4-3, and Kansas City dropped a 10-inning affair to Minneapolis, 12-11. Indianapolis rallied to spill Columbus, 10-7, in the day's fourth game.

Johnny McCarthy drove in seven runs to lead Indianapolis to victory over Columbus, the Indians getting six markers in the fifth to tie the score, 7-7, and making two in the sixth and one in the eighth to sew up the game.

Snatches of Sports

NEW YORK, April 24—One result of the gas shortage, according to folks who run sporting camps up north, will be increased popularity of canoe camping trips....And we'll guarantee that if you paddle a canoe a dozen miles against a hard wind, lug it and your camp equipment across a couple of portages and sleep on the ground a few nights, you won't need any obstacle courses to toughen you up...One suggestion for conserving golf balls is for the U.S.G.A. to eliminate Rule 24, which forbids switching balls on the green. That would let duffers hack at old pellets in the rough, then change to a good one for putting.

Shear Nonsense—In the interests of more colorful sports writing we quote; Arthur (Red) Patterson, N. Y., Herald Tribune (on Jim Tobin's slow ball): "Something which looked like a cross between a grapefruit and a bean bag, with perhaps a bit of dead cod through in."... Alan Ward, Oakland Tribune, (on the knocking-out of Ernie Nordman, Kansas City heavyweight): "Kansas City beef, heretofore considered the choicest in the land, has taken a terrific drop."

Today's Guest Star—Bob Stedler, Buffalo Evening News: "Max Schmeling is to return to the ring. One way to settle this war would be to put him in the ring with Joe Louis. But that would be akin to murder, and after all this country is still humane and honorable."

Another Marionite In League Baseball Debut

Owen Creasap Signed by East Coast Loop in Florida.

Trite as it may seem, the phrase: "Home town boy makes good" is befitting 19-year-old Owen Creasap, who already has gained a luscious minor league baseball contract and is being groomed for major league action.

"Cris," as he is best known by his Marion acquaintances, has been signed by the Ft. Pierce, Fla., team of the Florida East Coast circuit. He is the second Marion boy to make good in spring tryouts this year. Joe Roseberry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Roseberry of 272 Patterson street, has been signed by the Washington, Pa., team of the Pennsylvania State association.

They are the first Marion youths to break into organized ball in more than a decade.

Intent on making good in organized baseball, Creasap hitchhiked to Florida with James Todd, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Todd of 434 North Prospect street. The two had been close friends at Bowling Green State university, where Creasap earned his freshman football numerals last fall.

Heads for Ft. Pierce

Upon reaching Florida's sunland belt where major league clubs are a dime a dozen, he immediately headed for the training camp of the Ft. Pierce team. Why he picked out the Ft. Pierce team, neither his father or mother were able to say. "At any rate he won his place with them," Mr. Creasap said.

Shortly after arriving in the camp $35 was stolen from his clothes while he was in swimming. This represented his entire savings and consequently he was forced to wire home for funds.

He hadn't been in the camp for a week until fellow team candidates began calling him Joe DiMaggio and other nicknames of present big time stars. The nickname came about both because of familiarity in batting style between the proven champion and the rookie Creasap and also because of his tremendous power at the plate.

He's a First Baseman

Already he has accounted for more than his share of the Ft. Pierce extra-base blows. He has earned his baseball spurs in remarkable style. Shortly after arriving on the proving grounds, Creasap was shifted from his usual spot at first base to the outfield; however, he was recently reinstated at first after the Bombers purchased an outfielder.

For three years before entering Bowling Green State university last fall, Creasap starred on both football and baseball teams at Harding High school. He was captain of both squads in his senior year. Despite a painful back injury suffered during the 1939 football season, he was elected to the team captaincy and later dispelled fears of local fans that the injury might impair his baseball career.

As a member of the championship American Legion baseball team coached by William O. Williams, Cris was approached by several major league scouts. Because of his age and the fact that he had not graduated from high school, his baseball career was momentarily shelved. However, he was promised a chance after graduation.

Bowling Green Gridder

Scouts missed the boat last spring and Cris decided on a college career at Bowling Green and maybe a little college football as a side dish. He was a member of the Bee Gee freshmen football team coached by Bob Whittaker, like Paul Brown of Ohio State, a graduate of the high school coaching ranks.

This spring only two things lay ahead of Cris: College or pro baseball. He took baseball and if he develops as Marion fans predict, he will soon be among other rookie stars of the majors.

MARION, GALION TO MEET IN FIRST OHIO STATE LEAGUE GAME

Loop Opening Set for May 10; 40-Game Schedule Calls for 20 Home Scraps.

Marion's entry in the recently-organized Ohio State baseball league will play Galion on the Lincoln park diamond May 10 in the season opener for both teams, Ray Roseberry, manager of the local nine, said today.

Complete schedule for the six-team circuit was received here yesterday from Charles R. LeCrone of Tiffin, loop president. The schedule calls for each team to play 40 games, 20 at home and 20 on the road.

Provisions for a play-off at mid-season have been made, Roseberry said that a final play-off will be conducted at the end of the season.

LeCrone has arranged the schedule so that each team plays at home at least once a week. Because of conflictions, however, a team will not necessarily play at home one Wednesday and away the following Sunday. Each team has been assigned 11 Sundays or holidays at home, LaCrone pointed out.

On July 4, Aug. 12 and Sept. 7 double-headers have been scheduled. LeCrone said both games may be played in one town with teams sharring 50-50 in the gate proceeds or one game may be played in one town and the night-cap played in the town represented by the second club. Double-headers have been booked with the closest towns, LeCrone said. Galion will play Marion, Tiffin will play Fostoria and Findlay will play Fremont whenever doubleheaders are scheduled.

Bagby Hurls 9-Hit Ball to Win Third; Dutch Leonard Suffers Broken Ankle As Nats Win 10-5.

By The Associated Press

Predictions aside, the Cleveland Indians look like a baseball club, sitting up there in a tie for second place with the Boston Red Sox.

Pitcher Jim Bagby notched his third straight victory yesterday when the Indians launched a 13-hit attack to whip the St. Louis Browns, 9 to 2, and gain their fifth triumph.

The Tribe has a home run leader in Kenny Keltner, but most important, the Indians are playing right ball the entire game. In three of their last five contests they have come from behind to win, and in the other two games they broke ties in the late frames.

In gaining their lop-sided victory yesterday, the Indians came to bat in the eighth with a 2-all tie.

Score In Late Innings

With two out in the eighth, Keltner started the barrage with his homer. Heath singled and went to second when Walt Judnich fumbled. Elden Auker walked Les Fleming to make an infield play easier, but Heath and Fleming scored when Chet Laabs dropped Lou Boudreau's fly to right field. Lou reached second, but died there.

Cleveland scored four runs on four hits in the ninth.

Mel Harder was named for the Tribe and Danny Galehouse for the locals in today's battle.

The first serious casualty of the major league baseball season is Emil (Dutch) Leonard of the Washington Senators, whose luck seems to be going from bad to worse.

The round-faced righthander stumbled while crossing first base after running out a grounder in the second inning of yesterday's tussle with the Boston Red Sox and after he had been carried off the field his injury was to be a broken ankle.

Out Indefinitely

This means the big fellow baffled the American league his knuckle ball for the couple of years, winning 18 in 1941, will be out of action definitely and Washington's of struggling toward the couple of years, winning 18 in the second division received a back.

The Senators won yesterday 10-5, but the game itself was a pleasing spectacle—there 26 hits evenly divided and B made six errors to Washington two.

The day proved more for the Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians, both of whom as fearful of their pitching as south as Washington was ful.

Hal White, Detroit rookie righthander, pitched his second straight shutout, 9-0, on five against the Chicago White Sox. The Tigers tore into old Lyons for 16 hits.

The New York Yankees donated a 6-4 decision by Philadelphia Athletics, who hit the world champions 9 but made six errors. Joe Gordon came through with a single when the Yanks had the bases loaded in the eighth and knocked in runs for the margin of victory.

Similarly the Brooklyn Dodgers were helped to a 9-5 triumph Boston by three errors and of lax play that didn't show in the box score. Each team had 10 hits and seven pitchers service in the melee. Pete Reiser contributed a two-run homer.

Reds In Surprise

The Cincinnati Reds staged their biggest rally of the year, score five runs in the seventh inning and beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5-3. John Vander Meer pitched five-hit ball.

The Reds endeavor to achieve their fourth victory of the season today, just to show nothing else, that they have played their best ball yet.

The victory, if Ray Starr can it for them, would be their second in a row over the Pirates who are pitching Lloyd Dietz, former Red who beat Cincinnati in the second game of the series.

Lou Novikoff, the big bush the Chicago Cubs last year, "blowed" a sixth-inning home run to decide a pitching duel between Bill Lee and Max Lanier in favor of the Cubs, 2-1, over the St. Louis Cardinals. Each team made seven hits.

The New York Giants continued their timely hitting down the Phils, 5-2. They made nine hits, two less than the total enders.

Ohio State Nine To Face Indiana Twice

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 24—Northwestern, only unbeaten team among the seven members of the Big Ten which have already started conference baseball play, faced the threat of Iowa's Hawkeyes in week-end games today and tomorrow.

The hard-hitting Wildcats, who beat Chicago in two contests last week, were host to the Hawkeyes, tied for second place with Illinois. Northwestern's team batting mark is .337.

Chicago went to Champaign for a scheduled pair with the Illini, who like Iowa have won three out of four league games. Michigan prepared for its Big Ten opening against Purdue at Ann Arbor and Ohio State was due to bow into the race against Indiana at Columbus.

Col. Bradley Not To Be Represented in 1942 Derby

By The Associated Press

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 24 — Col. E. R. Bradley, only thoroughbred owner with a record of four Kentucky Derby victories, will not be represented in the renewal of the historic race at Churchill Downs May 2.

This announcement by Trainer Jimmy Smith was something of a blow to Bluegrass sentimentalists who have a big soft spot in the hearts for the Colonel's colors, but it scarcely was a surprise after the performance of Bless Me, his only Derby candidate, yesterday in the Blue Grass stakes at Keeneland.

The 63-year-old colonel, who watched the event, had announced previously Bless Me's showing would determine his chances for a Derby run.

When the Bradley colt ran second by three and a half lengths to Mrs. Payne Whitney's Shut Out, it was apparent he had dropped out of the Derby field.

Smith explained that Bless Me's effort wasn't "What he had hoped for."

Shut Out earned a net of $10,042 when he galloped across the finish line ahead of Bless Me and a full seven lengths in front of Hal Price Headley's Equinox, only other horse in the race.

Mrs. Whitney's Greentree stables Derby stock went soaring again with this victory. Devil Diver, its other leading Derby candidate, was unable to start because of a minor cut on a leg.

The sharp ones in these parts figure that with both Greentree colts almost sure starters in the big event May 2, the stable should provide plenty of competition for all comers.

Fort Lewis hospital attendants said his injuries were not serious.

U. of Texas Quartet May Establish World Record

By The Associated Press

DES MOINES, Ia., April 24 — Four ambitious University of Texas speedsters had world record ideas at the Drake Relays today.

The quartet—Capt. Harry Halfernick, Max Minor, Gene Wiren and Mac Unstattdt — sought to erase the 3:23.2 sprint medley world mark established by another Texas team here a year ago.

The Longhorn team did a 3:26.1 race a month ago and Relays Director Bill Easton was confident the favorites in the top opening day attraction would come through with a record race. Eight other finals in the university and college divisions and a host of preliminaries were on today's program.

Billings, Jensen and Ross Win Armory Mat Decisions

Promoter Les Fishbaugh Referees Wild Wrestling Show, Billy Venerable and McGee Disqualified.

That good officiating makes a world of difference in a wrestling match was evident last night as Promoter Les Fishbaugh, somewhat of a pad star in his own right, ran a one-man show last night at the Armory. Because of a shortage in manpower and also because fans have been clamoring for better officiating, Fishbaugh referred last night's trio of matches, disqualifying two of the six self-styled grapplers.

Leo Jensen of New Orleans won a single fall decision over Irish McGee of Cedar Rapids, Ia., in the first half of a double semi-final bill. McGee persisted in twisting Jensen's leg around the ropes despite Fishbaugh's disqualification threat. At 30 minutes of the first fall Fishbaugh disqualified McGee. Neither fighter was able to win a fall in the eight remaining minutes after a ten-minute rest period.

Tony Ross of El Paso, Texas, won a clear victory over Billy Venerable, also of Texas, in the second semi-final scrap. Ross won the first fall with a crab hold and was awarded the second fall when Venerable was disqualified for choking. Venerable vociferously claimed he was not choking, but using a legitimate chin lock.

After taking heavy punishment for 45 minutes bulky Nick Billings of Athens, Greece, took advantage of slightest break to floor Jackie Steele of Centersville, Iowa.

Billings won the first fall in 11 minutes with a half-crab. Steele came back to even the match in 15 minutes with a series of body slams followed by a body press. Steele set the third fall pace by tossing Billings around at will in a series of body slams. Billings succeeded in breaking the hold and followed by tripping Steele and turning him into a half-crab lock to win the deciding fall in 10 minutes.

Ear Defenders

IN THESE days when the American public is exposed to all sorts of unusual noises, with the increase of workers in industrial plants, the possibility of artillery and bombing training going on, it is well to know that the best specialists in ear disease in the country believe that ear defenders are very valuable in preventing injury to the ear.

Some authorities maintain that 25 per cent of all cases of nerve impairments of the ear result from exposure to occupational noises. It is safe to conclude that no one engaged for as long as five or more years in such noisy work as pneumatic riveting escapes impairment of hearing.

One study reveals that 75 per cent of the workers in a boiler factory were unable to hear at all at a public meeting, or could hear only with difficulty. Other studies demonstrate that the production rate of typists, inspectors and weavers is diminished by noise increases.

Most of the injurious effects of noise are preventable. Of course engineers and managers of industrials plants have endeavored for a long time to diminish noise in factories, but a great deal can be accomplished with the development and use of effective ear stoppers or defenders.

Simple wax or rubber stoppers in the ears will reduce noise by as much as 25 to 35 decibels. Even cotton in the ears provides a certain amount of insulation against noise. Loose cotton reduces noise by seven decibels and cotton rolled into a tight taper provides an insulation of 12 decibels. Wax and cotton mixtures insulate up to 35 decibels and especially well-fitted rubber stoppers will produce an insulance of 50 decibels.

The intensity of some familiar sounds are: whispering, 30 to 40 decibels; conversation, 55 to 65; noise in a subway train, 80 to 90; riveting, pneumatic drilling, airplane engines, 95 to 125. Thus on a subway train, ordinary speech will have to attain a level of 95 or nearly twice its normal intensity in order to be recognized.

Contrary to what might be expected under conditions of noise, ear defenders do not make conversation more difficult to hear. If exposed to excessive noise for any length of time, the ear apparatus becomes numb and those who have had protection are better able to hear than those who have not. Besides, in any noisy environment, it is natural for everyone to raise the voice and under these conditions, the people who wear ear defenders are better able to hear what is said to them than those who do not.

Answer: No, not if it is true asthma. Whooping cough sometimes resembles asthma and the distinction should be made.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

After Plans Are Completed for Taking Gangsters to New York, Madge Puts in a Call for Her Father.

I MADE my decision about Jim Watson in what Mary calls "a split second." I knew my father's reluctance to let any outside person share in his plans or activities, but Watson already had given us invaluable aid in the capture of the gangsters, and there was no question that we needed an extra guard on the journey down to New York. So I felt that I could second with enthusiasm the encomium of the captain of the state troopers.

"I shall be very glad indeed to have him," I said. "Of course all his expenses will be paid. But can he go at a second's notice?"

"Oh, yes," the captain answered. "He's an old campaigner, and he'll buy whatever he needs in New York. He's pretty well fixed, and lives with a sister who doesn't worry about him. One of our boys will take her a message, so he won't have a thing on his mind but the trip. Would you like me to ask him about it?"

Back Through Warren

"Yes, if you would, please," I said gratefully. "And, do you mind asking him to do something else for me?"

"Indeed no; glad to," he said. Then, urged by the chance of securing a few minutes of solitude in which I could examine the carven ivory cube, which I had found in the hidden recess, I spoke rapidly.

"Now that these gangsters are all accounted for, isn't it possible to go back the way we came, through Warren, instead of going around the other way, as we had planned?"

"Perfectly possible," he assented. "In fact, it's much the best way for you. We shall have to go the other way, for it's the nearest way to the hospital where we want to take our man."

"Then," I went on, "if you agree, please ask Mr. Watson to go back to the cars, and have our driver and Mr. Branchman bring them up here. Mr. Branchman has the two men we first found, one of whom, I am sure, is the leader and the brains of this particular undertaking. We shall have to add those two to the men you captured, and put them all in the big armored car of the gangsters."

Wants To See Impersonators

"It will be a tight fit," the captain said with a grin, "but it won't hurt them, the rats. And I'm quite anxious to see those two now in Branchman's car. Watson says they were made up so well to impersonate old Diswell and his man that you could hardly tell 'em apart."

"It was a very clever job," I said.

"I want to see it," he said again. "But I think, if you don't mind, I'll have Branchman and your man drive past here when they come, and go into that hidden place in the underbrush that Watson knows. Then when we get these birds into their own car, we'll drive it down there too, then take the two impersonators out of Branchman's car. No use having so many cars on the road down here. Nobody goes by here for hours at a time, but there's no use having the place look like the headquarters of a convention."

"A very wise precaution," I said. "Thank you so much for everything."

"Is there anything else you'd like me to do?" he asked.

I could not shriek, "Yes, get away and let me be alone," as my racked nerves impelled me to do, for he had not wasted a second of time. So I managed to make my voice composed and plausible as I murmured, "Not another thing, thank you."

Gus Promises Secrecy

"Then I'll leave you to your telephoning," he said, and when he had gone, Gus looked at me wistfully.

"You want me to go out doors too, Missis Graham," he said.

"Yes, Gus, if you please," I answered firmly. "I shall be perfectly all right, and you needn't go beyond the doorstep if you do not wish."

"I didn't mean to go any farther away than that," he said, then hesitated and let his curiosity get the better of his usual caution.

"Did you find what you was looking for?" he asked.

I masked my annoyance and answered truthfully, as the best way of keeping him quiet.

"Yes, I did, Gus," I said, "but I must ask you to say nothing about it."

"I'll never say a word," he promised as he went out, and with a sigh of relief I reached for the telephone and called my father at the Hotel Lansfield.

New Waxy Corn Will Take Place of Tapioca

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The agriculture department announced today its plant breeders had developed a new type of "waxy" corn as a substitute for tapioca. Because supplies of tapioca have been cut off by the war in the Pacific, the department plans commercial production of the corn next year.

In recent years the United States has been importing about 350,000,000 pounds of tapioca annually to use as adhesives for stamps and envelopes, and for puddings and thickening for soups.

The new grain was developed from a specimen of wax-like corn brought to this country years ago by a missionary in China.

The department now has less than 100 bushels of the corn available for seed. This grain will be used this year to produce seed for commercial planting in 1943.
